

Hitler Pledges Yugoslavia Border Will Be Respected

Regent Prince Paul Sees Military Demonstration, Feted Last Night at State Dinner

Exchanges Toasts

Hitler Speaks of Warm Ties Between Nations and Paul Responds

Berlin, June 2 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today followed up a pledge of respect for Yugoslavia's border with Germany "for all time" with an impressive demonstration of military might for Regent Prince Paul.

The regent, here on a five-day state visit, stood with the fuhrer and high German army officers near Berlin's monument to war dead in Unter den Linden to see the parade of soldiers and war machines.

For more than three hours troops marched and artillery, tanks and motorized equipment rolled through Berlin's streets while airplanes roared overhead.

The regent, who arrived here yesterday, opened today's ceremonies by placing a wreath at the war memorial.

Then, riding with the fuhrer in the latter's automobile, he went to the technical high school where the parade was witnessed from a platform.

State Dinner Held
At an elaborate state dinner last night at Hitler's new chancellery, Hitler spoke of warm friendship between the two countries and said their new common border had been "established for all time."

In an exchange of toasts, Hitler spoke of the ties between the two countries thus:

"I believe in this (German-Yugoslav friendship) all the more since a solidly founded and trustful relationship of Germany toward Yugoslavia—Yugoslavia that through historic events we have become neighbors with common borders established for all time—will not only secure a permanent peace between our two peoples and countries but beyond that will provide an element of calm for our jittery continent."

Responding, Prince Paul expressed gratification that Germany "intends to recognize Yugoslavia's freedom and independence as well as the same frontiers which join us as lasting neighbors since last year."

The common frontier was established with the March 13, 1938, annexation of Austria by Germany.

(A Belgrade dispatch said that informed Yugoslav circles viewed the regent's visit as laying the foundation for a non-aggression pact with Germany. It was supposed the principle of such an agreement would be discussed by the prince and Hitler with the actual drafting to come later.)

Tells Ships to Return
At Hamburg, Germany, the Hamburg-America line directed the captain of the liner St. Louis at Havana today to return to Germany with his shipload of Jewish emigrants if they could not be landed promptly.

Earlier it had protested to the Cuban government against orders forbidding the landing of the 917 refugees.

It was stated at the company's headquarters that the captain was instructed not to try to land at any other port unless the Jewish passengers themselves managed to get permission to disembark.

The St. Louis was not told to leave Cuba at any specific time. It was assumed here the captain would use his own judgement, giving the passengers some opportunity to make arrangements to enter some other port.

Explosion Kills Man
Bellevue, O., June 2 (AP)—An explosion last night that laid a blanket of ammonia fumes over this city of 6,500 left one man dead today, and sent eight others to a hospital from breathing the fumes.

An ammonia compressor tank at the City Ice and Fuel Co. plant here blew up, causing the death of Donald Ice, 24, an employee, after inhaling the fumes.

The explosion snapped pipes, showering ammonia on the employees.

Picks Her Spots
Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., June 2 (AP)—This bear picks her spots. When President Roosevelt visited Yellowstone Park in 1907, a large female bear entertained him with her antics. Yesterday Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha of Norway were especially delighted with an amiable bear. It was the same animal, park rangers said. This time she had three cubs, who also performed for the royal visitors.

Rules Against Refugees
San Jose, Costa Rica, June 2 (AP)—The supreme court today ruled against 20 Jewish refugees who had been permitted to enter Costa Rica temporarily but had recently been ordered to leave.

Secrecy Shrouds Meeting

It Is Thought, However, That President and Eight Industrialists Discussed Ways Last Night of Putting Capital to Work in Nation

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Means of breaking the log-jam of investment capital were generally believed today to have been a major topic at a secrecy-shrouded conference between President Roosevelt and eight prominent industrialists.

The business men dined at the White House last night, with Secretary of Commerce Hopkins seated at the head of the table, before talking informally with the Chief Executive.

Mr. Roosevelt was prevented from eating with them by a sinus infection, which kept him from his desk Wednesday and Thursday.

No one present would discuss the conversation afterward, but the investment or "risk capital" idea has been uppermost in the business analyses of federal officials and business men alike for many weeks.

Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury saw a few days ago that minor changes in the tax laws might coax some of the nation's idle dollars into productive service, which would create private work for some of the 3,000,000 persons on WPA.

The Senate is holding hearings on a proposal of Senator Mead (D-N. Y.), an administration supporter, to take some of the risk out of industrial investment by providing federal insurance of bank loans to business—particularly small business.

Chamber Official Suggests Flat Tax Upon Corporations

Congress Asked to Repeal Profits Tax Outright and Substitute 15 Per Cent Levy

Washington, June 2 (AP)—A spokesman for the United States Chamber of Commerce suggested to Congress today imposition of a flat rate normal corporation tax of 15 per cent and outright repeal of the undistributed profits levy.

The proposal was presented in the House ways and means committee by Ellsworth C. Alvord, vice chairman of the business organization's committee on federal income. It included a recommendation for a specific credit of $2,000 to reduce the corporation tax on small incomes.

The present law levies a 12½ per cent tax on small corporations with the rate advancing to 16 per cent as the income increases to a maximum of $25,000. Corporations with an income of more than $25,000 are subjected to the undistributed profits tax, under which they pay 16½ per cent if all their profits are distributed as dividends to stockholders and 19 per cent if profits are retained in the corporate treasury. Partial disbursement in dividends calls for rates between 16½ and 19 per cent.

Both treasury and congressional tax experts have been studying the question of revising this system in the interest of removing levies considered obstacles to business improvement.

Repeal, Modification
One plan calls for repeal of the undistributed profits levy, modification of various other taxes bearing on corporations and a flat corporate tax of 22 per cent. Another said to be in favor in the Senate Finance Committee calls for somewhat similar repeals and modifications but a flat tax of 18 per cent.

The Chamber of Commerce spokesman appeared before the committee at a time when a meeting between President Roosevelt and a group of top-flight business leaders had given vigorous new impetus to discussion of business improvement.

Treasury Receipts
Washington, June 2 (AP)—The position of the treasury May 31: Receipts, $9,855,308.00; expenditures, $26,720,648.11; net balance, $2,924,260,044.18; working balance included, $2,254,178,517.43; customs receipts for month, $25,318,101.69; receipts for fiscal year, (July 1), $5,055,301,868.28; expenditures, $8,295,768,960.93; emergency expenditures included, $2,852,998,667.54; excess of expenditures, $3,240,467,022.65; gross $40,281,307,681.92; increase over previous day, $4,794,530.71; gold assets, $15,956,393,968.04.

Dewey Presents Compromise Plan to End Detroit Strike

Detroit, June 2 (AP)—James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, presented a compromise plan today in an effort to break the deadlock in Briggs Manufacturing Company strike negotiations.

Dewey said today's joint conference involved "discussion of a new angle and approach to the whole question" by the Briggs management and the United Auto Workers Union (CIO), which called the strike 12 days ago.

Yesterday Dewey disposed of 27 grievances, deciding five in the company's favor and 15 in the union's, and referring two to the National Labor Relations Board, and five to later negotiations. Both sides accepted the grievance decisions and promptly became stalemated again over the discussion of a new contract with the union shop clause the chief hurdle.

Dewey said the company spokesmen had declared "at least a thousand times" it would not assent to the union shop clause.

The union denied reports that it had refused to discuss any other phase of the contract until the union shop clause was granted. This provision would require all employees to become members of the union within a stated period.

It was estimated that possibly 200,000 workers are idle.

Lehman Signs Tax Measure Passed On Federal Wages

Bill Is Expected to Raise $1,500,000 and Is Last Part of New 33 Month Schedule

To Name Judge

Governor Likely to Name McNamee Successor Before June 13

Albany, N. Y., June 2 (AP)—Governor Lehman's approval of a bill authorizing state taxation of federal employees' salaries completed today the implementing of a $33,333,000 new tax program sponsored by majority Republicans of New York's Legislature.

The measure, providing for one of three fresh levies to help finance the $490,000,000 budget, was expected to raise $1,500,000, although the governor, in giving approval, maintained "it will not bring in additional revenues any way near" that amount.

Proposed after a recent United States Supreme Court decision held that states are empowered to tax salaries of federal employees, the levy is effective as of last January 1 and will be payable next April.

Two other new taxes already approved by the executive, include a 50 per cent increase in the present $1-a-gallon liquor tax and a two cents-a-package tax on cigarettes. The first is expected to yield $9,333,000 and the second, $22,500,000.

Nomination Anticipated
Authoritative sources said the Governor will "very likely" select a successor to the late Justice Daniel V. McNamee on the bench of the appellate division, third department, before opening of the court battle over constitutionality of the Republican budget, June 13.

The contest, based on the state's claim that the legislature's "lump sum" slashes of approximately $25,000,000 in the governor's itemized $415,000,000 budget is unconstitutional, will be taken to the state's highest court.

A Republican bill which would have turned over state control of unemployment relief to the localities drew Lehman's veto and the assertion that "a complete surrender by the state of the administration of relief to localities might throw the entire relief situation into the field of politics."

"In my opinion," he added, "it would increase the cost of relief to the taxpayers of the state by at least $10,000,000 a year."

Republican Assembly Majority Leader Irving Ives, who sponsored the measure, maintained the bill would mean "a 25 to 50 per cent drop" in relief costs by eliminating "dual administration." The relief administration is centered in the state social welfare department.

Milk Tax
Bringing the number of new laws to 627, the Governor approved continuing under a $310,000 appropriation and a three-fourths of one per cent tax on each 100 pounds of milk sold, the state's milk publicity campaign until April 1, 1940.

He also placed his signature on a measure paving the way for construction of a new $4,250,000 span at Niagara Falls to replace the fallen "Honey Moon" bridge, by permitting the Niagara frontier state park commission to convey two parcels of land on the Niagara reservation to the Niagara Falls bridge commission for the bridge site.

The governor vetoed a bill which would have required the state to pay for snow removal and sanding of state highways in counties where such work is not undertaken. The measure, he said, "would greatly increase the cost of state government without supplying money to meet the cost."

Hiltbrandt Renamed As Water Commissioner

John Hiltbrandt of 65 West Chestnut street has been reappointed a member of the Board of Water Commissioners for a term of five years, expiring May 31, 1944.

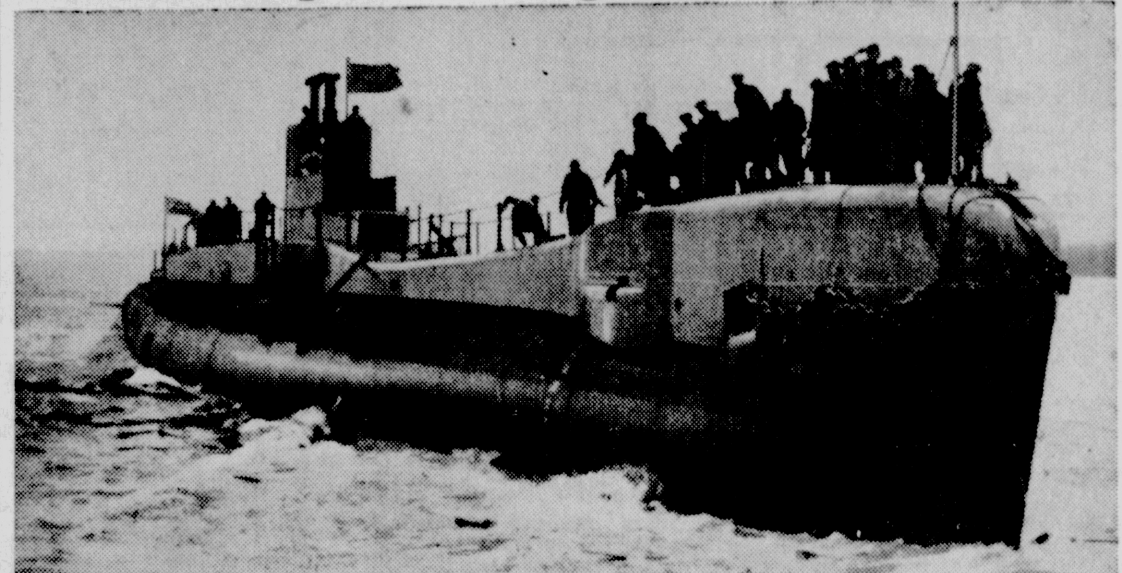

Mayor C. J. Heiselman announced today the reappointment of Commissioner Hiltbrandt to succeed himself.

Pair Rewarded
New York, June 2 (AP)—Alexander Poncez and Joseph (Spasm) Isot, Harlem police bankers, whose testimony helped convict James J. Hines, former Tammany district leader, were rewarded today by the state. Both men, indicted with Hines and others as conspirators in the Dutch Schultz policy racket, were given suspended sentences and put on probation for two years by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora before whom they pleaded guilty last summer.

Ship Hits Toll Bridge
Norfolk, Va., June 2 (AP)—The tanker Rhode Island, owned by the Texas Oil Company, ploughed into a toll bridge across the Elizabeth river today, toppling two of five spans. The operator of the draw span was believed caught in the wreckage which blocked the river channel.

Britons Working Desperately To Save 90 Trapped Aboard Partly Submerged Submarine

Sister Ship of Missing British Submarine

The British Admiralty officially announced that one of its newest submarines, the Thetis, was missing after a test dive 50 miles off Birkenhead, Eng., with a crew of 53 and an undetermined number of naval experts and others aboard. A tug, which accompanied the Thetis to the scene of its dive, after several hours of waiting, reported "something is amiss." The "Thetis," a sister ship of the missing submarine, is shown just after its launching last May 5 at Barrow-in-Furness, England.

Where British Sub Went Down

Rescue buoys from the sunken British submarine, Thetis, were reported to have been sighted off Great Ormes Head, in the Bay of Liverpool. Aboard the vessel which sank during tests in the Bay of Liverpool off Birkenhead were 94 persons. The cross indicates the approximate location of the sunken craft. The Bay of Liverpool is indicated by a cross in the inset.

Court of Appeals New Stop and Go Rules in Rye Case Signals Operate

Appellate Decision Upheld Light by High School to Be in Operation on Broken Schedule of Hours

Albany, N. Y., June 2 (AP)—New York's court of appeals, in its first decision involving the state's new constitution, held today a municipal law may issue bonds to pay school taxes without violating a constitutional ban against loaning its credit.

The ruling affirmed unanimously an appellate division decision ordering the town of Rye, Westchester county, to pay union free school district three $15,927 in uncollected school taxes.

Counsel for the town, in arguments before the court, contended the payments would necessitate borrowing money or issuing certificates of indebtedness in violation of a basic law provision stipulating "nor shall any county, city, town, village or school district give or loan its credit to or in aid of any individual, public or private corporation..." A school district, the town said, is considered a "public corporation."

School district attorneys contended the provision in the new basic law, reformed by a convention last summer and adopted by the electorate in November, does not contravene "provisions of the Westchester county tax law in effect for 20 years." They said such payments were made before the new constitution became effective.

Associate Judge Irving Lehman, writing the court's opinion, said:

"To meet its own obligation in aid of a governmental duty and to meet such obligation the town may borrow money where necessary. That is not a loan or gift of its credit to the school district in anticipation of reimbursement..."

Scouts to Gather For Third Annual Camp at Armory

Scene Is Set for Assembly of Youths This Evening; Broad Program to Put Boys on Alert

Scout Executive R. Gardiner Burns announces that the stage is set and plans completed for the opening this evening of the third annual camp-o-ree of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The camp-o-ree, which is expected to be the largest and most interesting of any yet held, will again be located on the state armory grounds off Manor avenue, and an attendance of some 500 scouts and scouters from the two counties is expected.

Arrivals will begin at the camp site at 3 o'clock and from then till 6 all will be busy setting up camp, each troop having its own location. At 6 o'clock supper will be the order of the day, followed by district campfires at 8:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock taps will be sounded.

Naval Officials Think Men on Craft Have Abandoned Use of Escape 'Lung' to Save Oxygen

Stern Above Water

Admiralty Reports Forward Part of Submarine Flooded

London, June 2 (AP)—The British admiralty announced tonight a strong tide had carried the submarine Thetis completely under water and forced temporary suspension of attempts to cut a hole in the stern, which had been exposed, to rescue 90 men.

At the same time the admiralty said it was not clear why use of the Davis escape method had been abandoned with 90 men left in the submarine and after only four had reached safety.

Birkenhead, Eng., June 2 (AP)—Admiralty officials expressed belief today that the Davis "lung" escape had been abandoned to preserve the air supply for 90 men still trapped aboard the partly submerged British submarine Thetis.

Four of the 94 persons aboard when the sleek new submarine dived into the mud and sand below 130 feet of water in the Irish Sea had come to the surface strapped in the oxygen rescue masks.

But when no more men emerged in mid-afternoon, several hours after the last of the four to escape by the Davis "lung" method had been picked up, admiralty officials surmised that system had been suspended.

Rescue efforts were speeded up on the night of June 1. Naval experts hurried preparations to cut holes in the fin-like tail of the Thetis, glinting above the surface, while her nose lay in the mud.

They hoped to cut the holes above water at low tide early this evening, to permit fresh air to be pumped in.

It was hoped that eventually one hole could be widened so that the trapped men could be released through it.

Workmen already had scrambled up the submarine's slippery exposed slopes investigating the possibility of cutting off its tail with acetylene torches.

90 Men Abandoned
The number still imprisoned was placed at 90 when the admiralty announced this afternoon that four naval officers not previously listed, were aboard, making a total of 94 persons in the submarine at the time of the accident.

In addition to the four officers and the 58 officers and men of the Thetis' crew, it said, there were 26 men from Cammell Laird, Ltd., her builders; three employees of Vickers-Armstrongs, Ltd., engine manufacturers; one pilot and two civilian caterers.

The admiralty disclosed that the forward part of the submarine, including the forward escape hatch, was flooded. All but 18 feet of the tail was submerged.

Admiralty experts explained that the Davis escape system probably had been suspended because each time it is used it lessens the amount of air in the submarine and also lets in a small amount of water.

Four Men Escape
Birkenhead, Eng., June 2 (AP)—The sleek new British submarine Thetis grounded during a test run, lay in the clutches of mud and sand in the Irish Sea today, with all aboard said to be alive and for the moment safe.

Four men escaped with Davis "lungs" to direct salvage and rescue operations, and the admiralty hoped that the lungs would bring others of the 94 men who boarded her yesterday quickly and safely to the surface.

Eighteen feet of the 265-foot submarine were above water, but both of the escape hatches—one fore and one aft—were under sea. The hatch in the stern, nearest the surface, was being used for escape.

The Thetis left Birkenhead and submerged in Liverpool Bay at 1:40 p. m. yesterday for a test before being accepted from the builders, Cammell Laird, Ltd.

She did not come to the surface on schedule three hours later, and search was started by 25 steel-clad warships, royal airforce planes, salvage vessels, and two submarines.

The destroyer Brazen came upon the stern part above water this morning, 18½ hours after the dive started, and shortly afterward the admiralty announced that "the crew are at present safe," that there was "every hope of getting them all out" by the

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Bad Break

Norfolk, Va.—The proprietor of a Norfolk shop was as much concerned about the window broken during a robbery as he was about $5,000 in bills missing. The window was costly glass. The currency was confederate.

Eternal Feminine

Pittsburgh.—An automobile crashed through the wall of Paul Stump's home and into the living room, narrowly missing a 12-year-old boy sitting in a chair. As a crowd gazed in astonishment, one woman spectator observed: "Doesn't she have lovely curtains?"

Cherry Tree Days

Kansas City.—Seven-year-old Danny Brosnahan, questioned about a fight, gave a long, detailed account in which he tried to exonerate himself but did admit his guilt. "But you did start it, Danny?" asked a neighbor. "Oh, sure," the mischievous Irish lad smiled. "I haven't told a lie since they let me play George Washington in that school play last year."

Close Harmony

Eugene, Ore.—The Willamette Valley Lumbermen's Association heard Secretary-Manager J. Cox propose unity, then quickly adopted his proposed slogan: "When the banana leaves the bunch, it gets skinned."

Fitting Clue

Chicago.—Police asked Isadore Gelfand, a clerk in a tailor shop, to give a description of two men who robbed him of $42. "I'd say they had 29 inch waists and wore size 36 coats," he said. "That's the way they looked to me."

This 'Grow House' Design Allows 2 More Bedrooms

By The AP Feature Service

This is the second of six weekly features on "grow houses," so designed that rooms can be added when necessary. While plans and specifications are not available through this paper, local architects can work out plans to fit individual needs.

TWO FUTURE BEDROOMS, indicated by dotted lines, can be added to the basic house. Entrance will be through a door cut through the wall in the back hall. The new rooms will be separated by a small entrance hall and two closets. Note that the basic house includes a dining alcove, extending from the front of the house under a single, simple gable, which covers a small entrance porch, too. The cost of the basic house runs about $2,110 in an average mid-western community—exclusive of such items as lot, range and architect's service, which run the cost up about $750. The two future bedrooms would add about $575. Like other houses in this series, this one is built of clapboard siding, with brick casing on the chimney, and asphalt shingles. While designed for minimum cost, it meets with Federal Housing Administration requirements.

Historical Society Luncheon Monday

The literary meeting and luncheon of the Ulster County Historical Society, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, June 5, it is expected will be one of the most interesting held by the society.

The literary session begins at 11 a. m. and will feature two papers of great interest to Ulster county folks. Miss Marie K. Pigeon is to tell about the Kiersted family, prominent in Kingston from Colonial days and Dr. William H. S. Demarest, president emeritus of Rutgers, will give a paper on the life of Dina Van Bergh. The daughter of a rich Amsterdam merchant, Dina came to this country and is said to have had a far-reaching influence. Her story is of interest to Ulster county people as she served as pastor's wife in the Reformed Church parishes of Wawarsing, Rochester and Stone Ridge.

The annual luncheon will follow the literary session, with brief responses to toasts, Judge Hasbrouck, president of the society, presiding. Tickets for the luncheon may be secured at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at Burgevin's Flower Shop, or from Louis G. Bruhn, secretary-treasurer.

CHEER UP, TOWNSENDITES!

Knowing the tremendous growth of the Townsend Movement in the United States in recent years, many Townsendites believed Congress would pass the Townsend Bill this year. But we discouraged this belief. Even Dr. Townsend did not expect the bill to pass this year. Nevertheless, there is no reason whatever for discouragement or doubt as to the final victory. That such an unheard of law, as that of the Townsend bill, could win one fourth of the House of Representatives in four years, including many of the leaders in both houses of Congress, is a marvelous achievement for our encouragement when compared with the progress of other famous movements. The old hue and cry that it would wreck the government is the same old political bug-a-boo that reactionaries and selfish politicians always drag out and hold up to frighten the country against progressive legislation, while they recklessly squander billions of dollars on far less worthy projects. They said the soldiers' bonus would wreck the government and for many years this bug-a-boo delayed the passage of that bill. But when it became a law no horrible financial collapse or panic followed, but rather a temporary business revival. The Townsend Plan will make a permanent business revival, provide a decent support for the aged, largely solve the unemployment problem, and not cost the government a cent. Nothing can stop the onward sweep of the Townsend Movement. When 50,000 Townsendites, coming from every state, gather in Indianapolis this month for their annual convention, the country will realize that the Townsend Plan is steadily marching on to victory. Read the Townsend National Weekly, on sale at Kingston news stands if you want the real truth about this great movement.

Manton Pressed To Tell Manner Of Sudden Riches

New York, June 2 (AP)—U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill, delving further into the involved financial affairs of former U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton, demanded today that Manton explain his change in 11 months from a debtor with a minus balance of $500,000 to a creditor with a net worth of $750,000.

The resigned jurist is on trial on a charge of conspiracy and dispensing justice for a price.

Manton explained that his fortunes, bad in early 1934, improved when he arranged for the sale of the Hotel Terrace Corporation, one of his holding companies.

Cahill produced checks to show that on July 23, 1934, a law firm paid Carl J. Austrian, liquidator for the defunct Bank of United States, $23,500 in settlement of an indebtedness of about $125,000 due from Manton's corporate organizations.

Manton said he got the money through the hotel sale. Cahill turned next to an indebtedness to the Harriman Bank and Trust Company for $118,000 which was settled by payment of $103,500 on August 29, 1934.

Manton explained that after the hotel sale, money went to the Alean Holding Company, another of his companies, from which he obtained the money.

Manton is accused of profiting to the extent of $225,000 in six cases before him.

Lovely New Asters Fight Off All Enemies

Resistant Aster Early Light Blue Won a Silver Medal in 1939 All-America Trials.

If you like asters, but have trouble growing them, there is good news for you. Resistant strains, whose exceptional vigor enables them to fight off all troubles, are being constantly improved.

A wilt resistant aster, Early Giant Light Blue, won a silver medal in the All American trials for 1939, indicating that in addition to vigor, the new resistant strains have attained exceptional beauty as well.

The China aster is one of the show flowers among the annuals. Though not related to the chrysanthemum it has many points of resemblance—both are natives of China, both have been developed into an amazing variety of forms and colors from an original small single flower, and both are at their best in the fall.

Asters have been grown in this country since revolutionary days and twenty years ago it was the most popular annual, but in recent years many amateurs have become discouraged because of the diseases which attacked them.

Of these, two are most prevalent, the wilt and the yellows. The first is usually present in the soil, and the second is insect borne. Resistant strains are grown on wilt infected soil; seed from plants which thrive in this environment has been saved and grown for generations in similar surroundings until a race which refuses to wilt has been produced. While not specifically immune to yellows, the resistant strains are so vigorous that many plants will survive the latter disease, provided all which show infection are destroyed as soon as detected.

Asters need an early start; they cannot be set out before danger of frost is past, but their season of maturity is so long they need to be started early. This makes them ideal subjects for the indoor box or cold frame.

The silver medal winner, Early Giant Light Blue, is of the Crego or ostrich feather type. Its petals are curled and interlaced in a most attractive manner. With good culture it will produce flowers five inches in diameter, on three foot stems.

Wilt resistant asters may be obtained in all types, and colors and should be used wherever difficulties in growing this lovely flower have been encountered, whatever the trouble may be.

Harnett's Trial Off Indefinitely

New York, June 2 (AP)—The case of Charles A. Harnett, former state commissioner of motor vehicles indicted on a charge of accepting $67,000 in bribes from a taxicab company for favors rendered, was put off indefinitely today.

Defense counsel, saying Harnett was a patient in Bloomingdale Hospital at White Plains and that there had been no recent change in his condition, added the trial probably would not be held before October. The case was removed from the court calendar.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Bad Break
Norfolk, Va.—The proprietor of a Norfolk shop was as much concerned about the window broken during a robbery as he was about $5,000 in bills missing.
The window was costly glass. The currency was confederate.

Eternal Feminine
Pittsburgh — An automobile crashed through the wall of Paul Stumpf's home and into the living room, narrowly missing a 12-year-old boy sitting in a chair. A crowd, upset in astonishment, one woman, a spectator observed: "Doesn't she have lovely curtains?"

Cherry Tree Days
Kansas City — Seven-year-old Danny Bresnahan questioned about a fight, gave a long, detailed account in which he tried to exonerate himself but did admit his guilt.
"But you started it, Danny?" asked a policeman.
"Oh, yes," the mischievous Irish lad said. "I haven't told a lie since I was born." He said George Washington was at school play last year.

Close Harmonies
Eugene, Ore.—The Willamette Valley Lumbermen's Association, a heated Society-More at J. C. Co. propose unit, then quickly adopted his proposed slogan.
When the band leaves the lunch, it gets skinned.

Itting Cue
Chicago—Police asked Isadore Gelfand, a clerk in a tailor shop, to give a description of two men who robbed him of $12.
"I'd say they had 20 inch waists and wore size 36 coats," he said. "That's the way they looked to me."

This 'Grow House' Design Allows 2 More Bedrooms

By The AP Feature Service

This is the second of six weekly features on "grow houses," so designed that rooms can be added when necessary. While plans and specifications are not available through this paper, local architects can work out plans to fit individual needs.

TWO FUTURE BEDROOMS, indicated by dotted lines, can be added to the basic house. Entrance will be through a door cut through the wall in the back hall. The new rooms will be separated by a small entrance hall and two closets. Note that the basic house includes a dining alcove, extending from the front of the house under a single, simple gable, which covers a small entrance porch, too. The cost of the basic house runs about $2,110 in an average mid-western community—exclusive of such items as lot, range and architect's service, when run the cost up about $750. The two future bedrooms would add about $375. Like other houses in this series, this one is built of clapboard sides, with brick casing on the chimney, and asphalt shingles. While designed for minimum cost, it meets with Federal Housing Administration requirements.

UNLAWFUL GARDENS

Too much sinful individualism, it seems, still survives in the hearts of collectivized Russian farmers. It seems to be human nature for a man to want to eat what he himself has raised, and even to hold out a little surplus to trade to a neighbor for something else he needs. So the Soviet government has had to crack down again on the peasants.

Peasants they are now, as they used to be under the autocratic czars, although for a few years after the recent revolution, when they grabbed the land they had farmed as serfs, they were their own masters. Rural Bolshevism seems to be merely a new and more efficient copy of the old regime.

In every farming community under the present system, the bulk of the land is held and operated in common as a local unit, producing crops for general use and contributing a fixed share to the state. The government, however, recognizes that even socialized man has a taint of the old Adam left in him. So it has allowed farm workers to possess private garden plots varying from half an acre to two and a half acres, according to fertility. It is here that the innate wickedness of the human heart appears. Farmers have cheated by enlarging their family gardens and holding out on the government.

So from now on, every garden will be carefully measured and the rights of the collective state safeguarded against such skulduggery.

It is probably logical enough, and the sort of thing that has to be done when a country takes that road to economic salvation. But it certainly seems contrary to human nature, at least white man's nature. The old Mexicans and many other native tribes in this hemisphere seem to have been local collectivists.

AMERICAN GREETERS IN CANADA

Readers over here have been a little surprised to find, in the stories of the progress of the King and Queen across Canada, that there are nearly always many Americans in the cheering crowds. This is particularly true of the stops made near the border.

At Revelstoke, for example, described by a newspaper woman as "a wide spot in the road," 500 American school children from Wenatche, Wash., crossed the border and lined up on the railroad platform along with the loyal Canadians. At another place it was an American high school band that played the welcoming music, including national anthems of both countries.

The Canadians apparently are not annoyed at this "horning in" on their party. And that is natural, too. There is always much moving back and forth across the border all along that famous boundary line. Not only do vacationists from each country travel in the neighboring land, but in many places citizens of each country hold jobs on the other side, going back to their own homes in their own countries at the end of the day.

We forget these things ordinarily. The widespread interest in the royal tour reminds us of them and emphasizes them a little.

COFFEE PLASTIC

Industrial chemistry may yet get the world on its feet again, ending the farm surplus problem and benefiting industry at the same time.

The research laboratories have been doing amazing things for us with corn stalks, soy beans, wheat straw and buttermilk. Now it is announced that one of them has found a way of making coffee into a highly versatile plastic. Some day a man at breakfast may drink his coffee while sitting on a chair made of coffee plastic and using a cup and saucer of the same strange material.

This is good news for Brazil, which has had to burn much coffee in recent years because it couldn't market its most important product profitably.

AMBASSADORIAL DEMOCRACY

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador at Washington, has been "on the spot" lately with regard to her party for the King and Queen. Naturally nearly everybody in this country, and especially in Washington, wants an invitation. The number is limited to 1,350, which to any ordinary American hostess seems quite a roomful.

Curiosity is pardonable in such a case, and perhaps social aspiration is, too. But Lady Lindsay had to draw the lines somewhere. She seems to have done it in a sensible way, on the basis of a principle that Americans can understand.

She wanted to ask "representative Americans" to meet her royal guests, says the ambassador, and by that she means "average Americans." So she has invited those who, in her opinion, represent various professional and economic groups in American life, such as the clergy, labor, business, the press, and so on. And here, perhaps, is the nearest touch of all. The top society people, or "social registerites," whom she has invited, she says are simply "average in that particular group."

It looks as if this aristocratic English lady is showing democratic Americans how to be democratic.

THE WINNING NERVES

A New York Times correspondent writes from Berlin that the Nazi leaders were chagrined by the apparent indifference of the democracies to the German-Italian pact of alliance. That was supposed to be a great shock to the rest of the world, the heaviest blow in the "battle of nerves" now being waged between the axis powers and their opponents.

The democracies doubtless were indifferent for several reasons. One is that they are becoming accustomed to shocks, so that one more fails to startle. Furthermore, the alliance merely put on paper a situation already well known; it did not create the axis.

More important, however, was the fact that the democracies have finally realized that it is to be a battle of nerves and threats and wearing down, and they have decided that they can survive it as well or better than Germany and Italy.

When Kipling wrote of "The White Man's Burden" he hadn't seen anything yet.

 ALWAYS SOME CAUSE FOR INDIGESTION

Among the commonest conditions of which patients complain is indigestion. There is no use trying to tell a patient that his indigestion is caused by mental or emotional disturbances unless a complete or thorough examination is made by test meals and by X-rays. And even in cases where no possible cause can be found for the indigestion, years later a real or organic cause is often found.

When patients go to the Mayo Clinic for examination and treatment in most cases they have been examined and treated elsewhere and finally go to the Mayo Clinic as a last resort.

Drs. D. L. Wilbur and J. H. Mills of the Mayo Clinic, in the Annals of Internal Medicine, record their study of 354 patients who after examination at the Mayo Clinic were told that their indigestion was functional or nervous, that is, not due to any organic trouble. These cases were examined about seven years later and it was found that real trouble—not nervous or functional—was present in about one in six cases, most cases being due to ulcer of the stomach or intestine or to inflammation of the gall bladder. Other conditions found which were causing the indigestion in some cases were heart disease, hardening of the arteries, kidney stone, inflammation of the kidneys, pernicious anemia, tuberculosis and syphilis.

The point then is that in the case of a patient suffering with indigestion from no apparent cause, his indigestion must not be considered of the nervous or emotional type unless a complete examination is made and a full history of the case has been well considered. If the Mayo Clinic can be wrong in one of every six or seven cases, it shows how watchful both patient and physician must be in cases of indigestion due to no apparent cause. A longer and more thorough search would appear to be necessary before calling the condition nervous or functional indigestion.

A check-up every three or four months might catch the condition in time and prevent the need of operation, or if operation were necessary, it could be done in time to save life.

Health Booklets

Nine useful booklets by Dr. Barton are now available for readers of the Kingston Daily Freeman. They may be obtained by sending ten cents for each one desired to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of this newspaper. The booklets are: (No. 101) Why Eat Your Way to Health; (No. 102) Why Worry About Your Heart?; (No. 103) Neurosis; (No. 104) The Common Cold; (No. 105) Overweight and Underweight; (No. 106) Food Allergy or Sensitivity to Various Foods and Other Substances; (No. 107) Scourge (gonorrhea and syphilis); (No. 108) How Is Your Blood Pressure; (No. 109) Chronic Rheumatism or Arthritis.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

America Needs More Employers
 Babson Says More Jobs Depend On More Employers

New York City, June 2.—The church which I attend at Wellesley Hills has what is called an "Open Door." The church is open every afternoon and evening, seven days a week, and 52 weeks a year for those who have problems. Some lay man or some lay woman is in charge of the work each afternoon or evening.

There are 50 of these business men and women of the community who are on duty during the year. In addition to being of help to those who call with their various problems, these conferences are of great value in enabling our leading citizens to learn first-hand of the spiritual, educational, economic, and civil troubles which the less fortunate have.

When the big depression started—in 1930-31—it was the day laborers who were first thrown out of work. The greatest hardship came upon them for they had no savings accounts nor other reserves. As the center of the depression was reached—in 1933 and 1934—another group, including white-collar workers, began to suffer as their savings were used up. Both of these groups have been aided for some time by the WPA and other forms of government spending. The recession of 1938-39, however, has reached the higher-bracket incomes—the salesman, executive, and employer group.

Employers Hard Hit
 Eight years ago the distress cases were among the poorly paid day laborers. Five years ago they were among the mechanics and clerks. Now they are among the executives and employers. Recently I was on duty at the "Open Door" session. I had five callers. Three of my five callers were among the executive class who 10 years ago were receiving salaries in excess of $5,000 a year and two were employers! This is not only a new development in the unemployment situation, but it is vitally important to every manufacturer and merchant.

These executives and their families have been the good spenders. If this group must now slash their standard of living, it means even less trade for the jobs. No WPA or government relief program has yet been devised to help the investor, executive, or employer group. In short, an entirely new problem is developing today in connection with unemployment. The employer class is now suffering with all others. Since they are the ones who must provide the jobs, the time has come for action.

Private Ownership or Fascism
 If we are to continue our system of private ownership, there must be radical changes in the attitude of the government, labor leaders, and even preachers toward employers. Unless the state is to take over all industry and be responsible for giving everybody a job, then it is essential that it help, rather than hinder, employers. When there is a shortage of work, the need is for more employers. This is the simple and only answer to unemployment!

We are, therefore, facing this situation: Either we must change our American system of government and turn to state capitalism (which ultimately develops into Fascism) or else we must change our attitude toward employers, builders, and investors. We have played at this thing too long. Now that all groups are suffering, we can delay the choice no longer. When scores of well-paid executives are forced to sell their homes, slash their standard of living, and return to manual day labor, then we come smack up against a problem which has not yet occurred during the depression. Must Encourage Employers

 If the great need today is for more employers, we must encourage employers. The following are three ways this can be done:

(1) Taxes can and must be lowered. I refer to city taxes, state taxes, federal taxes, and the other hundred and one taxes now inflicted upon employers. This, moreover, is not an appeal for the idle rich. As far as I am concerned, Roosevelt can put a 90 per cent tax on the "play-boys." I am asking for lower taxes on homes, business blocks, and factories. No matter how much money the federal government is willing to loan for new houses, building will not increase until taxes are reduced. It is the taxes which you must pay on your own home, the taxes on the plant that hold back building. Merely lowering the interest rate on mortgages will not encourage you to build a new house if your taxes are going to increase more than what you save on mortgage interest!

(2) Labor must let up on employers for awhile. I believe in collective bargaining. The wage workers of the corporation have as much right to combine and negotiate through some person of their own choosing as have the stockholders. When labor leaders, however, think that they must get a little more each year for their jobs and collect their dues, it is very dangerous. Wage workers should realize that their leaders may serve them better at times by urging a reduction in wages or an increase in hours.

(3) Restriction and regulation is wrong. Reducing hours ultimately increases prices so that the net result is a loss in the number of jobs. Only as more is produced, is there more to divide. As to building operations and other new plans of employers should temporarily be lifted. Every kind of handicap today is placed upon a man who wishes to build a new factory or store plant. I recently wished to have a new toilet put into my building and was obliged to consult four different government officials to make this simple improvement. Employers must now secure city permits, state permits, federal permits, labor union permits, fire permits, smoking permits, and various other kinds of permits before they can spend a dollar.

Not only this, but people in the neighborhood oppose the addition on the factory because it will create more noise or something else. The time has come when parents must choose between having noise, smoke, and a job for their children, or no noise and no job. In the meantime, employers are saying to themselves, "What's the use? Life is too short." As a result, the number of employers is getting smaller every day instead of getting bigger as is needed in order to create new jobs.

Industry Depressed;
 Race Tracks Booming
 But the above is not the worst. While the number of employers in the basic industries—food, clothing, and shelter—is rapidly declining, yet those engaged in promoting gambling, liquor, race tracks, slot machines, night clubs, and pulp magazines are constantly increasing. This is the most serious factor of all. The character of our young people is being undermined, while the men over 50 are being thrown into the scrap-heap. I am still an optimist for the long pull, believing that the American people will some day come to their senses. This "some day" must come very soon, however, if the unemployment problem is to be remedied under our current form of government.

Agitation for the Townsend Plan Will Not Die with the Overwhelming Vote Against It in House

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 2.—The agitation for the Townsend plan will not die with the overwhelming vote against it in the House of Representatives, nor will old age pensions become any less a part of the action of a paternalistic national government.

The purpose of the vote at this time was to put Republicans and Democrats on record for the 1940 campaign, but the maneuver can easily be interpreted as a vote of the manner in which the vote was taken. There was really no opportunity for amendments. Hence a member can readily contend that he favored, for instance, the $200-a-month pension plan, but didn't believe in the transaction tax as a method of financing it.

Actually, the number of Republicans voting for the plan was slightly more than on the Democratic side—it was 55 and 40—but the Republicans cast 107 votes against it and the Democrats 194. This is not much comfort for either party above the other in the pro or anti-Townsend camp.

There is no denying that the Townsend club activity has played a part in the modification of the existing plans, though there were other important and substantial reasons for the changes being made in the present law.

Thus, the legislation about to be passed will move up the time from the beginning of old age pensions, so that it will start in January, 1940, instead of January, 1942. Likewise, there has been an increase in the grants. Heretofore, the starting pensions would have amounted to a paltry $10 a month. Now, the new law is designed to pay $31 a month minimum to a married man who before the amendment averaged about $50 a month for the previous three years. Also, if a man averaged $100 a month, he would now get a pension of $40 a month. Similarly, one who has been earning $250 a month would get about $60 a month.

Widows of the workers would receive the pensions for life or until they remarry. To get the pension, the widow does not have to prove destitution or need unless the husband dies before retirement age, which is 65.

The end of the Townsend plan, induced, some will say, by the growing political strength of the Townsends and possibly also by the growing recognition of the problem of superfluous labor in the advanced age groups.

With the improvement in health throughout America, the number of older citizens has been increasing at a time when unemployment has been increasing, too, among the younger and even more able-bodied workers. The problem of old age pensions is relatively new to the United States, but it has been a part of the social programs of foreign countries for many years.

Entirely apart from the social or humanitarian aspects of the problem is the impact of the pay-roll taxes which has caused hardships to businesses and unemployment. One answer which the administration is trying to apply to the situation is the moving up of old age payments to 1940 instead of 1942. This is because up to now the government has been withdrawing from the stream of purchasing power an enormous sum and has been sending back through the same stream relatively little. Thus, about $175,000,000 will be disbursed in 1940 in old age pensions, though about $500,000,000 will be collected. But the $175,000,000 is ever so much more than has been disbursed heretofore per annum, though large collections were made for potential reserve. The "freezing" of social security taxes beginning next January is part of the program to stop the deflationary effects of the payroll tax, at least until such time as disbursements and collections are somewhere near a balance.

There can be no doubt that many Republicans benefited in the 1938 election by the Townsend Club vote, and the Democrats have determined that, so far as incumbent members are concerned, this shall not happen again unless a member has actually voted for the plan. Those who have been flirting with Townsendism with no real intention of supporting the plan have been forced into a definite position. To this extent, the calling of the roll was a constructive thing from all viewpoints.

It may be that the decisive vote cast in the Townsend plan will tend to compel a change in the Townsend plan itself and a demand for more liberal pensions than are given by existing law, but without the much-controverted transaction tax.

Congress has by no means heard the end of the Townsend plan, and other plans to force an increase in outgo of government funds, and in the piling up of taxes, too. The nation is not as tax-conscious as might be believed from the intensity of the public discussion of taxes.

A FAREWELL TO ANNAPOLIS

As commencement exercises at the United States Naval Academy, held out of doors at Annapolis, Md., for the first time in 25 years, drew to a close, the joyous graduates tossed their midshipmen's hats into the air in a farewell to their academy years. Here is a portion of the 573 middies just after their "tossing" ceremony, with academy buildings in the background.

Pope Says He's Assured of Peace

Vatican City, June 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII told his cardinals today he had received "assurances of goodwill and of the resolve to maintain peace" from Europe's principal statesmen as a result of his recent overtures through papal nuncios.

The Pope said he also had "other information" which had given "greater hope that the considerations of noble humanity, the consciousness of inevitable responsibility before God and before history, and the right judgment of the true interests of their people would have strength and weight to induce the governments, in their efforts to reach a stable peace which would safeguard the liberty and the honor of nations, to think and to act in a manner calculated to reduce and conquer all obstacles . . . to understanding."

The cardinals had come to pay homage to the pontiff on his saint's day.

The Holy Father disclosed that his intervention took place "towards the beginning of last month" when "international dissensions" appeared "aggravated to the point of degenerating into bloody conflict."

He told the cardinals that "this step met in general with the sympathy of the governments" and "we received assurances of good will and of the resolve to maintain the peace which was so much desired by the people."

The Pope said that by his survey he had found the beginning of a "relaxation of the tension in men's souls."

NEW PALTZ NEWS

New Paltz, June 1—Miss Ruth Goldsmith attended a dinner given by Miss Margaret Schuetz of Kingston for the homemaking teachers of the county.

The Rev. John W. Follette has returned to his home in New Paltz from a successful teaching trip to Canada. While there he visited many places of interest including the Parliament buildings and attended a session of the House at Ottawa. He also visited the tower and famous carillon. This group of bells, numbers 53 which vary in weight from 10 pounds to 10 tons. The ton is an English ton, 2,200 pounds. Another visit was at the Royal Canadian mint and saw them making the dollar pieces used to commemorate the visit of the king and queen. Last Thursday while in Montreal he saw King George and Queen Elizabeth standing but a few feet from their car as it passed. Mr. Follette says there were over a million visitors in the city.

Roger Juckett of Rutgers University visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Juckett, over the week-end and occupied the pulpit at the Gardiner Church Sunday morning and in the evening at the Ohioville chapel. Clifford Gerow, of East Orange, N. J., spent last Sunday with his brothers, George and Alfred Gerow, and sister, Miss Mary Gerow.

The farewell party at the Central High School was reported a success. Carolyn Pinnzato, ventriloquist, who performed with her doll "Tommy" won first prize in the amateur show. Dancing included both balloon and broom attractions. Refreshments were served in the lunch room and during the evening the school presented Mrs. Switzer, formerly Miss Conard of the faculty and recently married with a beautiful cut glass dish.

New Paltz Future Farmers acted as host to the mid-Hudson meet last Friday. Six schools, Marlborough, Highland, Goshen, Washingtonville, Otisville and New Paltz were present. They visited the farm of Fred DuBois in the morning to do dairy cow judging. New Paltz won second place in the judging. Those winning first place in poultry judging in the afternoon were: William Elliott and Alfred Will. After the final scoring was totaled Highland had 19 points and New Paltz 18.

The final meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for the year was held Thursday. New officers were elected with Mrs. Bevier as president and Mrs. W. Jenkins, vice president. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. President Edgar V. Beebe welcomed to the Paltz Club at their last meeting Corporal Norman Baker, Mr. Smith and Howard Crispell and complimented them on their healthful appearance after their illness. Mr. Baker sat as the guest of Edward C. Elmore, who was in charge of the evening's program. He introduced E. L. Tripp, the man from Poughkeepsie who made all the apple blossoms for the Apple Blossom Festival. Mr. Tripp with a piece of chalk and the help of others present put on a very amusing program.

Lawrence van den Berg, Jr., was recently initiated into Druids, senior men's honorary society at the University of Michigan.

Miss Hilda Gerald of Lynbrook, L. I., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Gerald.

Corporal and Mrs. Norman Baker were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Schantz at Highland Thursday evening.

Chapter 28 Paying Guests

"WHY DON'T you stay with the Macks?" Jocelyn asked Nola bluntly.

Nola carefully removed her gloves before answering. Her eyes were sparkling delightedly when she finally said:

"I only wish to help you out, Lyn. For the sake of long friendship. You must have guests in order to pay expenses. My money, so far as I know, is just as good as anyone else's. How many rooms have you rented so far?"

"None," Lyn grudgingly admitted. "But I will. It takes time and the ads have only been running three days."

"I know Thorn doesn't want me here," Nola shrugged. "But aren't you being rather narrow to resent me because of my personal differences with your brother? We always liked each other. Lyn. Why can't we go on being friends? With an impulsive gesture she held out her hand."

Jocelyn took it in hers. A slow smile removed some of the aloofness from her face. "If you're sure you want me for a friend, Nola?"

"I do. And now may I have that perfectly divine sitting room on the front corner? I warn you I won't pay over fifteen dollars a day!" She laughed merrily, caught hold of Lyn's arm, and urged her toward the stairs. "I have a million things to tell you, darling."

Jocelyn listened and commented with outward composure, yet inside she seethed with unreasoning envy and jealousy. She knew it was stupid to feel this way, but her vivid imagination tortured her with pictures of Tally holding Nola in his arms; murmuring words of love to her; kissing her.

"Nola," she interrupted the other girl's flow of small talk with almost rude abruptness. "I have work to do. Please excuse me." Starting toward the door she hoped her control would not slip until she got away from Nola's far too keen eyes.

"Why did you break off with Geoffrey?" Nola demanded. "I thought you'd be married by now."

"Ask Gram," Lyn flung over her shoulder and fled precipitately. Nola, dining with Lyn and Thorn that night, appeared vastly amused at Thorn's frenzied desire to interest and please her, while Jocelyn writhed to see him being meek and anxious and subservient.

After dinner Nola changed into a simple knitted suit of soft scarlet wool, brushed out her silver-gold hair until it made a silky halo about her face, then proceeded around the fence to the Mack's abode.

Jocelyn, watching her go, felt a sick emptiness inside of her chest. Lovely Nola, exquisite Nola, Tally was not to be blamed for admiring her.

"Thorn," she said, "don't make a complete idiot of yourself. Can't you manage a little dignity? It won't do you any good to prostrate yourself at her feet. She wants Tally, you—you see!"

I Love Him

"All right, I am an idiot, a sap. But I love her, Lyn. I never wanted anyone but her. I'd still want her if she didn't have a penny to her name."

"But she doesn't want you," Jocelyn pointed out.

"Maybe I can win her back," he declared doggedly. "She loved me once. Look here, Lyn, let's be practical! This place isn't going to pay and you must realize it by now. Nobody has even asked for a room or a room. It's too out of the way for tourists. If you don't marry Tally, we can sell this place, well, starve."

"Very well; we'll starve. Do you think I'd go to him with a proposition like that? He's making a living, isn't he? We didn't worry about him starving, did we? No. We shoved him around with less consideration than we give our servants. I am in no position to ask a favor of him, and I won't."

"Then I'll have to try and marry Nola. I've always wanted to marry her, anyhow."

"So you just said," Jocelyn wrinkled her nose in disgust. "It's too bad you didn't think about how much you wanted her before you kicked up a row. You only succeeded in pushing her into Tally's house and into his arms? You—you not only hurt yourself, Thorn, you—you messed up my life, too. I—I ought to hate you!"

Thorn gaped. "Lyn, you don't mean you actually fell in love with that—that—"

"Farmer!" she choked. "Yes I did! I love him, do you understand?"

With a sob she turned and fled from the room.

"I won't go near him," Jocelyn decided the next morning as she dressed. "I won't talk to him or see him or anything. Let him have Nola—I don't care. There's lots of other men in the world and I'll get over this I'll have to."

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Blue Mountain, June 1.—Sunday school at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Claude Hommel spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Fred Eckerelein, of Saugerties.

Mrs. Walter Folk called on Mrs. Frank Hill Thursday evening.

Mrs. Melvin Schoonmaker called on her mother, Mrs. Emma Snyder, of West Saugerties, Wednesday evening.

Lewis Carle called on Mr. and Mrs. Luther Wolven Sunday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Eugene C. Duryee entertained their aunt

So deciding, she chose a dark blue frock with pleated skirt and white pique collar. Thinking she really should look businesslike to be the proprietress of a hotel, she brushed her thick auburn hair into demure smoothness and turned the curling ends into a roll on her neck. It was five days now since she had inserted that ad in the papers. Surely someone would arrive today. She just had to make the place pay; just had to show Tally and Nola and the others that she could earn a living.

However, all decisions to the contrary, she strolled toward the stables after breakfast, having learned from the maid that Nola was still sleeping.

Simulating indifference to the plaintive whistling of Bury Me Not On the Lone Prairie, she stepped into Mephisto's stall and rubbed his velvety nose with her finger-tips.

"You'll have to wait until afternoon, 'Phisto," she told the fidgeting horse. "Don't you realize I'm a business woman?"

Hearing Tally approach the stall she suddenly put her arm about Mephisto's neck and squeezed tightly, afraid to stand away from him lest Tally observe her silly nervous trembling.

"Oh, Jocelyn," he said with casual friendliness, "I wondered if I could do some business with you? I could sell you milk, eggs, fresh vegetables, and your credit is good."

"I don't need credit," she informed him, still clinging to the pleased yet astonished horse. "Yet, if it will help you, I shall be glad to give you my business."

'Dear Nola'

SHE looked up and saw his eyes crinkling with laughter. "What's so funny?" she demanded, piqued.

"Oh, the idea of your trying to run a hotel, I guess. You're such a little bit of a thing... so young and inexperienced... and so darned determined. Honestly, Jocelyn, I take back what I said about you being helpless. I think you're swell... losing all of your money and coming through like this with your chin up. Let me help you, will you?"

"Although I don't see what you can do."

"Figure ways to cut down your operating expense," he offered. "You could let your maids and your cook go—the groom, too. Mother, with Gretchen's help, could do the cooking for you, and Gretchen could help you with the cleaning. You wouldn't have to pay them so much and they would be pleased to earn some money for clothes. Then I could supply you with practically everything but meat. It isn't a good idea, Jocelyn? Nola really planned it last night."

"Now, isn't that nice?" she mocked. "Dear Nola goes to much thought and trouble just to help me! Well, I don't need her help, or your advice! If you must hire your family out as servants, no doubt you'd do much better in the city. They could earn more money!"

He jerked backward as if she had slapped him. His face darkened with indignation. "I was wrong about you, see. You haven't changed. It's too bad you can't learn a few things about decency and courtesy from Nola!"

Shoving his hands deep into his trousers pockets he turned and stamped out of the stable.

"I didn't mean it," he whispered. "Mephisto whinnied softly and nuzzled her shoulder. 'What makes me say such things, 'Phisto?' she choked. 'He was really being kind and I—I thought it was swell until he said it was Nola's idea. Am I really a horrid spoiled brat?'"

He moved closer to her, unhappy at her trembling trying dumbly to comfort her and tell her he loved her.

Jocelyn, walking toward the front of the hotel, hating herself and wondering if apologizing would do any good, saw a yellow taxicab pull up in the driveway.

A little man wearing brand-new clothes peered at her from under the visor of a checkered cap paid well down on his head. He took a newspaper from his evercoat pocket and tapped it with a nicotine-stained finger.

"This the place where you got rooms to rent, Miss?"

"Yes," she acknowledged. "Do you wish room and board?"

His weary-like eyes darted appraisingly over the landscape. "Yeah, I guess so. Sure this place is secluded?"

"Certainly," she assured him. "We are three miles from Santa Barbara and more than a mile from the nearest house. No one will bother you here."

"Good." He took over a wallet thick with bills and paid the taxi driver. "Tell him where to put my baggage, Miss."

Continued tomorrow.

"Don't look now, but—" "Look over there and see if that man's looking, but if he's looking don't look."

There's a difference here: Rastus had just treated his girl friend to a restaurant dinner and as they departed from the food shop she said: "Rastus don't you know that it is bad form to sop up your gravy with your bread?"

"Liza," he replied, "it might be bad form, but it sho' am good taste."

In most American homes economy is not any more popular than it is in congress.

Bunchuck—Let me give you a piece of advice.

Dzude—What's the matter with it, that you are willing to give it to me?

Jimmy—I'd like to be a doctor when I grow up.

Tommy—What for?

Jimmy—So when fellows' mothers brought 'em to me I could say "Keep 'em home from school for a week or two."

We don't want our cut that way.

A celebrity wears his hair very long. One day his wife, who is a neat person, said to him in exasperation, "When are you going to get your hair cut?"

He (fairly)—Oh, when I get time, by dear.

She—In that case, they'll do it for free.

If you aren't exactly timid, it is well to be cautious:

Mrs. Williams could only find two aisle seats, one behind the other. Wishing to sit with her sister, she cautiously surveyed the man in the next seat. Finally she leaned over and whispered: "I beg your pardon, sir, but are you alone?"

Without even turning his head in the slightest, but twisting his mouth and shielding it with his hand, he muttered: "Cut is out, sister, cut it out, the wife's with me."

The optimists are just as often as the pessimists.

Fred—Is he to be trusted?

Sam—I'll say he is. He worked

Boogy—When that elevator fell with you I suppose all your sins flashed before your eyes?

Woogy—Well, not all, you see, we only dropped five stories.

MT. MARION
Mt. Marion, June 1—The Mt. Marion school gave a well planned and successful entertainment in the church hall Friday evening, May 26, with about 50 friends and parents present. The stage was set as a broadcasting studio and each member or group put his "number" on before the "mike." Those taking part were: Announcer, Eric Coursen; accompan-

Down, Peter DeWitt, Hazel Tobias, Eric Coursen, Donald Till, Irma Utzat, Sam Branch, William Till. Besides the excellent entertainment there was an interesting and instructive exhibit of the work done by the children, which the teacher, Miss Overend, explained to the parents and visitors so they might become more acquainted with what is being done in the school.

UNLAWFUL GARDENS

Too much sinful individualism, it seems, still survives in the hearts of collectivized Russian farmers. It seems to be human nature for a man to want to eat what he himself has raised, and even to hold out a little surplus to trade to a neighbor for something else he needs. So the Soviet government has had to crack down again on the peasants.

Peasants they are now, as they used to be under the autocratic czars, although for a few years after the recent revolution, when they grabbed the land they had farmed as serfs, they were their own masters. Rural Bolshevism seems to be merely a new and more efficient copy of the old regime.

In every farming community under the present system, the bulk of the land is held and operated in common as a local unit, producing crops for general use and contributing a fixed share to the state. The government, however, recognizes that even socialized man has a taint of the old Adam left in him. So it has allowed farm workers to possess private garden plots varying from half an acre to two and a half acres, according to fertility. It is here that the innate wickedness of the human heart appears. Farmers have cheated by enlarging their family gardens and holding out on the government.

So from now on, every garden will be carefully measured and the rights of the collective state safeguarded against such skulduggery.

It is probably logical enough, and the sort of thing that has to be done when a country takes that road to economic salvation. But it certainly seems contrary to human nature, at least white man's nature. The old Mexicans and many other native tribes in this hemisphere seem to have been local collectivists.

AMERICAN GREETERS IN CANADA

Readers over here have been a little surprised to find, in the stories of the progress of the King and Queen across Canada, that there are nearly always many Americans in the cheering crowds. This is particularly true of the stops made near the border.

At Revelstoke, for example, described by a newspaper woman as "a wide spot in the road," 500 American school children from Wenatche, Wash., crossed the border and lined up on the railroad platform along with the loyal Canadians. At another place it was an American high school band that played the welcoming music, including national anthems of both countries.

The Canadians apparently are not annoyed at this "horning in" on their party. And that is natural, too. There is always much moving back and forth across the border all along that famous boundary line. Not only do vacationists from each country travel in the neighboring land, but in many places citizens of each country hold jobs on the other side, going back to their own homes in their own countries at the end of the day.

We forget these things ordinarily. The widespread interest in the royal tour reminds us of them and emphasizes them a little.

COFFEE PLASTIC

Industrial chemistry may yet get the world on its feet again, ending the farm surplus problem and benefiting industry at the same time.

The research laboratories have been doing amazing things for us with corn stalks, soy beans, wheat straw and buttermilk. Now it is announced that one of them has found a way of making coffee into a highly versatile plastic. Some day a man at breakfast may drink his coffee while sitting on a chair made of coffee plastic and using a cup and saucer of the same strange material.

This is good news for Brazil, which has had to burn much coffee in recent years because it couldn't market its most important product profitably.

AMBASSADORIAL DEMOCRACY

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador at Washington, has been "on the spot" lately with regard to her party for the King and Queen. Naturally nearly everybody in this country, and especially in Washington, wants an invitation. The number is limited to 1,350, which to any ordinary American hostess seems quite a roomful.

Curiosity is pardonable in such a case, and perhaps social aspiration is, too. But Lady Lindsay had to draw the lines somewhere. She seems to have done it in a sensible way, on the basis of a principle that Americans can understand.

She wanted to ask "representative Americans" to meet her royal guests, says the ambassador, and by that she means "average Americans." So she has invited those who, in her opinion, represent various professional and economic groups in American life, such as the clergy, labor, business, the press, and so on. And here, perhaps, is the neatest touch of all. The top society people, or "social registerites," whom she has invited, she says are simply "average in that particular group."

It looks as if this aristocratic English lady is showing democratic Americans how to be democratic.

THE WINNING NERVES

A New York Times correspondent writes from Berlin that the Nazi leaders were chagrined by the apparent indifference of the democracies to the German-Italian pact of alliance. That was supposed to be a great shock to the rest of the world, the heaviest blow in the "battle of nerves" now being waged between the axis powers and their opponents.

The democracies doubtless were indifferent for several reasons. One is that they are becoming accustomed to shocks, so that one more fails to startle. Furthermore, the alliance merely put on paper a situation already well known; it did not create the axis.

More important, however, was the fact that the democracies have finally realized that it is to be a battle of nerves and threats and wearing down, and they have decided that they can survive it as well or better than Germany and Italy.

When Kipling wrote of "The White Man's Burden" he hadn't seen anything yet.

 ALWAYS SOME CAUSE FOR INDIGESTION

Among the commonest conditions of which patients complain is indigestion. There is no use trying to tell a patient that his indigestion is caused by mental or emotional disturbances unless a complete or thorough examination is made by test meals and by X-rays. And even in cases where no possible cause can be found for the indigestion, years later a real or organic cause is often found.

When patients go to the Mayo Clinic for examination and treatment in most cases they have been examined and treated elsewhere and finally go to the Mayo Clinic as a last resort.

Drs. D. L. Wilbur and J. H. Mills of the Mayo Clinic, in the Annals of Internal Medicine, record their study of 354 patients who after examination at the Mayo Clinic were told that their indigestion was functional or nervous, that is, not due to any organic trouble. These cases were examined about seven years later and it was found that real trouble—not nervous or functional—was present in about one in six cases, most cases being due to ulcer of the stomach or intestine or to inflammation of the gall bladder. Other conditions found which were causing the indigestion in some cases were heart disease, hardening of the arteries, kidney stone, inflammation of the kidneys, pernicious anemia, tuberculosis, and syphilis.

The point then is that in the case of a patient suffering with indigestion from no apparent cause, his indigestion must not be considered of the nervous or emotional type unless a complete examination is made and a full history of the case has been well considered. If the Mayo Clinic can be wrong in one of every six or seven cases, it shows how watchful both patient and physician must be in cases of indigestion due to no apparent cause. A longer and more thorough search would appear to be necessary before calling the condition nervous or functional indigestion.

A check-up every three or four months might catch the condition in time and prevent the need of operation, or, if operation were necessary, it could be done in time to save life.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

America Needs More Employers, yet occurred during the depression.
 Babson Says More Jobs Depend

On More Employers
 New York City, June 2.—The church which I attend at Wellesley Hills has what is called an "Open Door." The church is open every afternoon and evening, seven days a week, and 52 weeks a year for those who have problems. Some lay man or some woman is in charge of the work each afternoon or evening.

There are 50 of these business men and women of the community who are on duty during the year. In addition to being of help to those who call with their various problems, these conferences are of great value in enabling our leading citizens to learn first-hand of the spiritual, educational, economic, and civil troubles which the less fortunate have.

When the big depression started in 1930-31—it was the day laborers who were first thrown out of work. The greatest hardship came upon them for they had no savings accounts nor other reserves. As the center of the depression was reached—in 1933 and 1934—another group, including white-collar workers, began to suffer as their savings were used up. Both of these groups have been aided for some time by the WPA and other forms of government spending. The recession of 1938-39, however, has reached the higher-bracket incomes—the salesman, executive, and employer group.

Employers Hard Hit
 Eight years ago the distress cases were among the poorly-paid day laborers. Five years ago they were among the mechanics and clerks. Now they are among the executives and employers. Recently I was on duty at the "Open Door" session. I had five callers. Three of my live callers were among the executive class who 10 years ago were receiving salaries in excess of $5,000 a year and two were employers. This is not only a new development in the unemployment situation, but it is vitally important to every manufacturer and merchant.

These executives and their families have been the good spenders. If this group must now slash their standard of living, it means even less trade and fewer jobs. No WPA or government relief program has yet been devised to help the investor, executive, or employer group. In short, an entirely new problem is developing today in connection with unemployment. The employer class is now suffering with all others. Since they are the ones who must provide the jobs, the time has come for action.

Private Ownership or Fascism
 If we are to continue our system of private ownership, there must be radical changes in the attitude of the government, labor leaders, and even preachers toward employers. Unless the state is to take over all industry and be responsible for giving everybody a job, then it is essential that it help, rather than hinder, employers. When there is a shortage of work, the need is for more employers. This is the simple and only answer to unemployment!

We are, therefore, facing this situation: Either we must change our American system of government and turn to state capitalism or Fascism, or else we must change our attitude toward employers, builders, and investors. We have played at this thing too long. Now that all groups are suffering, we can delay the choice no longer. When scores of well-paid executives are forced to sell their homes, slash their standard of living, and return to manual day labor, then we come smack up against a problem which has not yet occurred during the depression. Most Encourage Employers

 If the great need today is for more employers, we must encourage employers. The following are three ways this can be done:

(1) Taxes can and must be lowered. I refer to city taxes, state taxes, federal taxes, and the other hundred and one taxes now inflicted upon employers. This, moreover, is not an appeal for the idle rich. As far as I am concerned, Roosevelt can put a 90 per cent tax on the "play-boys." I am asking for lower taxes on homes, business blocks, and factories. No matter how much money the federal government is willing to loan for new houses, building will not increase until taxes are reduced. It is the taxes which you must pay on your plant that hold back building. Merely lowering the interest rate on mortgages will not encourage you to build a new house if your taxes are going to increase more than what you save on mortgage interest!

(2) Labor must let up on employers for awhile. I believe in collective bargaining. The wage workers of the corporation have as much right to combine and negotiate through some person of their own choosing as have the stockholders. When labor leaders, on mortgages will not encourage you to build a new house if your taxes are going to increase more than what you save on mortgage interest!

(3) Restriction and regulation as to building operations and other new plans of employers should temporarily be lifted. Every kind of handicap today is placed upon a man who wishes to build a new factory or store or even to put an addition on his plant. I recently wished to have a new toilet put into my building and was obliged to consult four different government officials to make this simple improvement. Employers must secure city permits, state permits, federal permits, labor union permits, fire permits, smoking permits, and various other kinds of permits before they can spend a dollar! Not only this, but people in the neighborhood oppose the addition on the factory because it will create more noise or something else. The time has come when parents must choose between having noise, smoke, and a job for their children, or no noise and no job. In the meantime, employers are saying to themselves, "What's the use? Life is too short." As a result, the number of employers is getting smaller every day instead of getting bigger as is needed in order to create new jobs.

Industry Depressed;
 Race Tracks Booming

But the above is not the worst. While the number of employers in the basic industries—food, clothing, and shelter—is rapidly declining, yet those engaged in promoting gambling, liquor, race tracks, slot machines, night clubs, and pulp magazines are constantly increasing. This is the most serious factor of all. The character of our young people is being undermined. I am still an optimist for the long pull, believing that the American people will some day come to their senses. This "some day" must come very soon, however, if the unemployment problem is to be remedied under our current form of government!

Agitation for the Townsend Plan Will Not Die with the Overwhelming Vote Against It in House
 By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 2.—The agitation for the Townsend plan will not die with the overwhelming vote against it in the House of Representatives, nor will old age pensions become any less a part of the action of a paternalistic national government.

The purpose of the vote at this time was to put Republicans and Democrats on record for the 1940 campaign, but the maneuver can easily be rendered futile because of the manner in which the vote was taken. There was really no opportunity for amendments. Hence a member can readily contend that he favored, for instance, the $200-a-month pension plan, but didn't believe in the transaction tax as a method of financing it.

Actually, the number of Republicans voting for the plan was slightly more than on the Democratic side—it was 55 and 40—but the Republicans cast 107 votes against it and the Democrats 194. This is not much more than either party above the other in the pro or anti-Townsend camp.

There is no denying that the Townsend club activity has played a part in the modification of the existing plans, though there were other important and substantial reasons for the changes being made in the present law.

Thus, the legislation about to be passed will move up the time from the beginning of old age pensions, so that it will start in January 1940, instead of January 1942. Likewise, there has been an increase in the grants. Heretofore, the starting pensions would have amounted to a paltry $10 a month. Now, the new law is designed to pay $31 a month minimum to a married man who before retirement averaged about $50 a month for the previous three years. Also, if a man averaged $100 a month, he would now get a pension of $40 a month. Similarly, one who has been earning $250 a month would get about $60 a month.

Widows of the workers would receive the pensions for life or until they remarry. To get the pension, the widow does not have to prove destitution or need unless the husband dies before retirement age, which is 65.

There are liberal provisions, indeed, some will say, by the growing political strength of the Townsendites and possibly also by the growing recognition of the problem of superfluous labor in the advanced age groups.

With the improvement in health of older citizens has been increasing at a time when unemployment has been increasing, too, among the younger and even more able-bodied workers. The problem of old age pensions is relatively new to the United States, but it has been a part of the social programs of foreign countries for many years.

Entirely apart from the social or humanitarian aspects of the problem is the impact of the pay-roll taxes which have caused hardships on businesses and unemployment. One answer which the administration is trying to apply to the situation is the moving up of old age payments to 1940 instead of 1942. This is because up to now the government has been withdrawing from the stream of purchasing power an enormous sum and has been sending back through the same stream relatively little. Thus, about $175,000,000 will be disbursed in 1940 for old age pensions, though about $500,000,000 will be collected. But the $175,000,000 is ever so much more than has been disbursed heretofore per annum, though large collections were made for potential reserve. The "freezing" of social security taxes beginning next January is part of the program to stop the deflationary effects of the payroll tax, at least until such time as disbursements and collections are somewhere near a balance.

There can be no doubt that many Republicans benefited in the 1938 election by the Townsend Club vote, and the Democrats have determined that, so far as incumbent members are concerned, this shall not happen again unless a member has actually voted for the plan. Those who have been flitting with Townsendism with no real intention of supporting the plan have been forced into a definite position. To this extent, the calling of the roll was a constructive thing from all viewpoints.

It may be that the decisive vote cast in the House will tend to compel a change in the Townsend plan itself and a demand for more liberal pensions than are given by existing law, but without the much-controverted transaction tax.

Congress has by no means heard the end of the Townsend plan and other plans to force an increase in outgo of government funds, and in the piling up of taxes, too. The nation is not as tax-conscious as might be believed from the intensity of the public discussion of taxes.

Financial and Commercial

Securities Were Down Thursday

After a week of steady gains the market lost ground yesterday, and although final prices were above the lows for the day, losses were shown in all classes of securities. Volume remained low, totaling for the day being 600,000 shares. Industrial issues, as measured in the Dow-Jones list, showed a loss of 1.98 points for the day, closing at 136.20; rails were off 0.50 point, to 27.95; utilities declined 0.27 point, to 23.40. Commodities followed stocks downward, the Dow-Jones index being off 0.36 point for the day. With heavy selling cotton futures showed losses of from seven to 14 points. There was activity in the wool tops market, transactions being around 460,000 pounds; New York spot price was 86 1/2 cents, up half a cent a pound. Some mills raised prices on overcoats and topcoats five cents a yard. Wheat reacted on better weather reports and prices active, wheat closed 1/4 to 3/8 lower. Worth Street continued fairly active, with estimated sales of 15,000,000 yards yesterday and it is estimated that a total of more than 50,000,000 yards has changed hands since the buying movement started last week.

The foreign situation loomed up again yesterday as disappointment was evidenced over the speech of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov and industrial and rail averages on the London market showed a loss, although there was a firmer tone after the early declines. Paris closed slightly better in inactive trading. Amsterdam Bourse opened lower, but showed a firm tone later, domestic issues closing irregular.

There was a rise in electric output last week, total of 2,170,496,000 kw being 11.7 per cent over the same week last year. Engineering construction awards totaled $39,887,000 for the week ended June 1, being a decline of 12 per cent from the 1938 week. Residential building in May is reported to have been the best for any month since October, 1929. An estimated total of around $130,000,000 for the month in 37 eastern states is 15 per cent ahead of April and more than 50 per cent ahead of May, 1938.

It is estimated that business of the chemical companies for the last six months of this year will show a gain over the first half. Some net income reports for the three months ended April 30 include: American Power & Light, $2,600,117, vs. $3,016,347 in the same period last year. Continental Motors, net of $15,430 vs. net loss year ago of $29,693. Royal Type-writer, $520,187, vs. $254,223. United Gas, $2,314,507 (for March 31 quarter), vs. $2,398,150. Doehler Die Casting $139,585, vs. $80,176. For the six months ended April 30 Seiberling Rubber shows net of $403,576, or $1.27 a common share, vs. loss of $4,955, in the 1938 period.

B. F. Goodrich will cut interest charges by calling $18,319,200 of six per cent debentures due in 1945, paying 103 and accrued interest. Will use $18,000,000 in bank loans at three per cent and cash from company's treasury. President Sawyer of National Power & Light told stockholders that the system's gross revenues would be cut some $13,500,000 by sale of the company's properties in the Tennessee Valley. The Pennsylvania Railroad has asked that "reasonable participation" be allowed common stockholders in the reorganization of the New Haven Railroad. Pennsylvania owns 319,925 shares of New Haven stock. Under the pending reorganization plan common stockholders could receive nothing for their holdings.

THE VLY

The Vly, June 2—Jack Hall has employment at Albany.
Mr. and Mrs. Moses Van Demark are spending a few weeks at Poughkeepsie.
Mrs. Charles Haupt and family, of Jamaica, L. I., are spending the summer at their bungalow in this place.
William Wall is spending some time at the home of his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Olsen.
Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Betty and son, Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. Moses Van Demark spent one day last week at Walden and Newburgh.
Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bleier and family, of Brooklyn, are renting the Rockey Ridge cottage on the Van Demark farm for the summer. They expect to come up June 2.
Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Beatty and son, Vernon, spent Monday in Kingston.

New York, June 2 (AP)—Although demand was light, stock market leaders today were given a lift of fractions to more than a point.
With the ticker tape halting frequently, transfers for the five hours were at the rate of approximately 450,000 shares. Motors and steels were the best in the forenoon. Prices slipped from the top near the final hour.
While traders discovered little to get excited about either way, some buying apparently was based on revived hopes of greater business-government cooperation following last evening's White House conference between the President and prominent industrialists. Occasional breaks in the economic clouds also were mildly cheering. Europe cut a small figure.
The principal foreign markets were moderately higher. Bonds tilted selectively upward. Commodities were a shade mixed.
Among prominent advancing stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, Anaconda, Philip Morris, Dunhill International, Union Carbide, N. Y. Central and U. S. Rubber.

BRITISH SUBMARINE RESCUE APPARATUS

English submarine crewmen are shown as they were trained at Fort Blockhouse, Gosport, Eng., in the use of the Davis submarine escape apparatus which the men aboard the sunken ship Thetis may use to rise to the surface from that vessel, which sank off Great Orme Head, England, while making a test dive. All 78 hands aboard the Thetis are equipped with this escape apparatus—similar to the Momsen "lung" used by United States submarines.

No Program at Fair for Ulster

It is said that the plan to put on an entertainment program at the World's Fair on June 26, Ulster county day, has been given up.

The idea seems to be that the fair is so vast and entertainment features on so large a scale, outside of the multitude of features of the exhibition itself, that anything of an ordinary nature would attract no attention at all.
One visitor to the fair recently noted that a program which included a governor, a senator or two and other outstanding persons attracted but a couple of hundred or so people, although seats had been provided for 5,000.

lung device, and salvage equipment was being rushed to the spot.
This was about 14 miles northwest of Great Orme's Head, a Welsh promontory not far from where the craft dived.
Captain H. P. K. Oram, who survived the H-47 and L-12 submarine collision in 1929 in which 21 died, was one of the first to escape. He is now commander of the fifth British submarine flotilla and was captain of the L-12.
With him, to direct salvage operations and report on the submarine's condition, were two members of the crew, and F. Shaw of Cammell Laird Company, which had a party of 20 to 40 or more technicians aboard.
At Depth of 130 Feet
The Thetis was in 130 feet of water. An official of Mersey Docks and Harbor Board said the "work of rescue continues, and there is a good prospect of salvaging the submarine."
The Davis escape apparatus was first placed on British undersea vessels in 1934 with the admonition "no more steel tombs—save yourselves."
It is a bag which is strapped to the chest to act as a lifebuoy. An oxygen cylinder is attached, feeding by tube into the mouth, with a clip preventing nose breathing.
Seamen enter an escape compartment in small groups. The compartment is flooded slowly to equalize pressure to that outside the hull—a two-hour process—whereafter the hatch is opened and the seamen rise to the surface.
The water is drained into bilge tanks and the process repeated until all have left. The lungs were used in 1931 when the Poseidon sank in Chinese waters, but several persons died during or after the ascent.
The admiralty's announcement that the Thetis was found was made about 8:20 a. m. (2:20 a. m., EST). This was followed by statements from both the builders and from the admiralty that the men were then safe.

The association thanks all who through service and patronage helped to make this sale so successful.

Pneumonia Drug Proves Effective

New York, June 2 (AP).—Sulfa-pyridine, medicine's new remedy for pneumonia, has changed the entire aspect of this disease in childhood. Dr. Charles Hendee Smith of New York told the American Academy of Pediatrics today.

He and other physicians told of more than 100 child lives saved in the last winter by sulfa-pyridine, a drug which is yet not a year old in medical practice.

Since last fall its use has spread widely over the civilized world. Among children, Dr. Smith said, the death rate has been high in infants, low in older children. The sulfa-pyridine saves many infants and shortens the course of illness of the older children.

Type 19 is the pneumonia most deadly for infants, he said. The sulfa-pyridine is just as effective against this type as any other.

He told of 50 cases of child pneumonia in which the sulfa-pyridine reduced temperature to normal in 24 hours. He and other doctors agreed that these lifesaving results are confined to the usual form of pneumonia which is caused by the pneumococcus germ.

It is not very effective against pneumonias caused by streptococci and pertussis, or whooping cough infections.

Dr. Gilbert M. Jorgensen, of the Babies Hospital, New York city, told of 100 child pneumonia cases treated with sulfa-pyridine with only one death, which was due to heart disease. Of this 100, 45 per cent were under two and 25 per cent under one.

Among good reasons why we should watch our step is that others are doing so with a critical eye.

Organ Program To End Series

Mrs. Myrtle Thompson Jordan, organist of the Church of the Ascension in West Park, will give the final recital of the series of four which she has been giving on the new Hammond organ which was recently installed in the church. All who have attended the three recitals given thus far have been most enthusiastic in their approval of Mrs. Jordan's ability and artistry. Her programs have been outstanding for the variety of organ music selected, and showed the wide range of the organist's repertoire.

Next Sunday, June 4, the last of the series will be given at 4 p. m. This program will be made up entirely of religious music and will include works by Schumann, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Handel.

A FAREWELL TO ANNAPOLIS

As commencement exercises at the United States Naval Academy, held out of doors at Annapolis, Md., for the first time in 25 years, drew to a close, the joyful graduates tossed their mudshippers' hats into the air in a farewell to their academy years. Here is a portion of the 573 middies just after their "tossing" ceremony, with academy buildings in the background.

Pope Says He's Assured of Peace

Vatican City, June 2 (UP)—Pope Pius XII told his cardinals today he had received "assurances of goodwill and of the resolve to maintain peace" from Europe's principal statesmen as a result of his recent overtures through papal nuncios.

The Pope said he also had "other information" which had given "greater hope that the considerations of noble humanity, the consciousness of inevitable responsibility before God and before history, and the right judgment of the true interests of their people would have strength and weight to induce the governments, in their efforts to reach a stable peace which would safeguard the liberty and the honor of nations, to think and to act in a manner calculated to reduce and conquer all obstacles . . . to understanding."

The cardinals had come to pay homage to the pontiff on his saint's day.

The Holy Father disclosed that his intervention took place "towards the beginning of last month" when "international discussions" appeared "aggravated to the point of degenerating into bloody conflict."

He told the cardinals that "this step met in general with the sympathy of the governments" and "we received assurances of good will and of the resolve to maintain the peace which was so much desired by the people."

The Pope said that by his survey he had found the beginning of a "relaxation of the tension in men's souls."

NEW PALTZ NEWS

New Paltz, June 1—Miss Ruth Goldsmith attended a dinner given by Miss Margaret Schuetz of Kingston for the homemaker teachers of the county.

The Rev. John W. Follette has returned to his home in New Paltz from a successful teaching trip to Canada. While there he visited many places of interest including the Parliament buildings and attended a session of the House at Ottawa. He also visited the tower and famous carillon. This group of bells numbers 53 which vary in weight from 10 pounds to 10 tons. The ton is an English ton, 2,200 pounds. Another visit was at the Royal Canadian mint and saw them making the dollar pieces used to commemorate the visit of the king and queen. Last Thursday while in Montreal he saw King George and Queen Elizabeth, standing but a few feet from their car as it passed. Mr. Follette says there were over a million visitors in the city.

Roger Juckett of Rutgers University visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Juckett, over the week-end and occupied the pulpit at the Gardner Church Sunday morning and in the evening at the Ohioville chapel. Clifford Gerow, of East Orange, N. J., spent last Sunday with his brothers, George and Alfred Gerow, and sister, Miss Mary Gerow.

The farewell party at the Central High School was reported a success. Carolyn Pinzato, ventriloquist, who performed with her doll "Tommy" won first prize in the amateur show. Dancing included both balloon and broom attractions. Refreshments were served in the lunch room and during the evening the school presented Mrs. Switzer, formerly Miss Conard of the faculty and recently married with a beautiful cut glass dish.

New Paltz Future Farmers acted as host to the mid-Hudson meet last Friday. Six schools, Marlborough, Highland, Goshen, Washingtonville, Otisville and New Paltz were present. They visited the farm of Fred DuBois in the morning to do dairy cow judging. New Paltz won second place in the judging. Those winning first place in poultry judging in the afternoon were: William Elliott and Alfred Will. After the final scoring was totaled Highland had 19 points and New Paltz 18.

The final meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for the year was held Thursday. New officers were elected with Mrs. Bevier as president and Mrs. W. Jenkins, vice president. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

President Edgar V. Beebe welcomed to the Paltz Club at their last meeting Corporal Norman Baker, Mr. Smith and Howard Crispell and complimented them on their healthful appearance after their illness. Mr. Baker sat as the guest of Edward C. Elmore, who was in charge of the evening's program. He introduced E. L. Tripp, the man from Poughkeepsie who made all the apple blossoms for the Apple Blossom Festival. Mr. Tripp with a piece of chalk and the help of others present put on a very amusing program.

Lawrence van den Berg, Jr., was recently initiated into Druids, senior men's honorary society at the University of Michigan.

Miss Hilda Gerald of Lynbrook, L. I., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Gerald.

Corporal and Mrs. Norman Baker were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Schantz at Highland Thursday evening.

Academy Grounds Scene Of Lawn Fete

The annual garden party of the Academy of St. Ursula, sponsored by the Mothers' Association, was held Thursday afternoon and evening under ideal weather conditions, and was well attended by both adults and children.

Booths and tables were scattered throughout the grounds under the large trees and were attractively decorated to catch the eye of the visitor.

One booth that proved most fascinating to the children was that housing young boys in Persian kilted. The doll booth, in charge of Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, the candy and flower booth, in charge of Mrs. Francis O'Connor and Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, and the tables of fancy articles and basket work made by the patients at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, in charge of Miss Margaret O'Sullivan, also were well patronized.

Other booths on the grounds were the cake booth in charge of Mrs. C. J. Heitzman and Mrs. William Burns, the balloon booth in charge of Mrs. Raymond Droulette and the ten pin booth in charge of Mrs. Thomas Donovan and Mrs. Howard Murdoch.

At one end of the garden 15 tables of bridge were in play and at the other end was the children's grove where swings, slides and games kept the younger generation busy while the mothers were enjoying cards. The children's grove was in charge of Mrs. Michael Powers and Mrs. John Weber. Mrs. Thomas F. Crowley and Mrs. J. Edward Conway had charge of the cards. Another feature always seen at the St. Ursula garden party is the religious booth which this year was presided over by Mrs. Patrick McManus and Mrs. William Keating.

During the afternoon movies of local pictures taken during the year and coming for the children were shown by John Van Gonsic. A supper was served some 200 people in the evening under the direction of Mrs. David Flaherty, Mrs. Peter Camp and Mrs. Thomas Purvis, and a social party under the direction of Mrs. Julia Kane, Mrs. J. E. Phelan and Mrs. John Garavan was held in the evening.

D. A. R. Officers Installed Thursday

The installation of officers and annual reports of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, brought to a close the season's activities Thursday afternoon.

The annual reports were given by Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, secretary; Mrs. William C. Kingman, treasurer; Mrs. W. Dean Hays, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker, registrar, who reported the 47th year was closing with a membership of 543.

Other annual reports were made by chairmen of the following committees: Americanism, Mrs. Hiram Whitney; auditing, Mrs. James W. Scott; chapter advisor of Junior Group, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; correct use of the flag, Mrs. Howard R. St. John; D. A. R. magazine and motion pictures, Mrs. G. N. Wood; national defense, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; program, Mrs. Clarence Dummi; press relations, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger; resolutions, Mrs. David Terry; and radio, Mrs. Maynard Mize.

Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence, chaplain of Wiltwyck Chapter, installed the following officers for the ensuing year: Regent, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger; first vice regent, Mrs. William Macgregor

Mills; second vice regent, Mrs. Howard St. John; recording secretary, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. O. Allen; treasurer, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; historian, Mrs. Homer Emerick; registrar, Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker; chaplain, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence; and librarian, Mrs. Adam Porter.

Members of the local board also installed Thursday were Mrs. C. Ray Everett, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. G. N. Wood.

Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, retiring regent, reviewed the year's work of the chapter and thanked the members for their splendid cooperation. She then presented Mrs. Terwilliger with the regent's pin, who in turn thanked the group for the honor they had bestowed upon her, saying that she accepted it with the responsibilities it entailed and hoped, with the support of the officers, to make Wiltwyck Chapter a continued strong influence in the community.

Chairmen of the standing committees were appointed by Mrs. Terwilliger as follows: Americanism, Mrs. Hiram Whitney; auditing, Mrs. James W. Scott; chapter advisor of Junior Group, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; correct use of the flag, Mrs. W. Dean Hays; Ellis Island co-chairmen, Mrs. Harris C. Inglis and Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey; entertainment, Mrs. Clarence Dummi; hospitality, Mrs. David Terry and Mrs. William A. Frey; house, Mrs. William Lawton; librarian, Mrs. Adam Porter; motion picture, Mrs. Howard St. John; music, Mrs. A. H. Van Buren; national defense, Mrs. Raymond R. Gross; national historical magazine, Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck; press relations, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle; program, Miss Louise W. van Hovenberg; reception, board of trustees; pilgrimage, Miss L. May Quimby; resolutions, Mrs. William E. Simmons; radio, Mrs. Maynard Mize.

Mrs. Terwilliger announced the formation of a new committee, girl homemakers, which will be in charge of the Junior Group. Announcements were made of the Hudson Valley D. A. R. conference Saturday at the Borwick House, Coxsack, and the Flag Day party, June 14, for chapter members and their friends. Cards will be played and a motion picture, "The American Way," will be shown at 3:15.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. H. Chambers and Mrs. Ralph Gregory.

Stay-at-Home Camp Planned For YWCA

The Y. W. C. A. will again conduct the annual stay-at-home camp for school girls for three weeks in July, offering girls many of the advantages of camp without the necessity of going away from their families. The schedule will provide a four-day program each week, two days being spent out-of-doors and two at the association building. Swimming instruction will be a major emphasis. The program will also include nature study, dramatics, music, handicraft, interpretive dancing, and general recreation, as well as some surprise features. Only 40 campers will be admitted, since it is impossible to safely take a larger number with the existing facilities, and they will be accepted in the order of registration.

The Y. W. C. A. staff will generally supervise the camp and they will be assisted by a group of counselors, who are now being recruited. Those attending the planning meeting for the camp were Mrs. Theron Culver, chairman, and Mrs. Noble Graham, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Mrs. Adam Thiel, Mrs. Ward Brigham, Mrs. Joseph Craig, Miss Mary Staples, Miss Lillian Herdman and Miss Jean Estey.

Further details regarding the camp may be secured from members of the committee or at the "Y" office.

Sunday Concerts at Woodstock
Robert Elwyn announces 10 Sunday afternoon concerts at his New Woodstock Playhouse beginning July 2 at 4:30 p. m. Mr. Elwyn has decided to give the entire artistic direction of this series to Georges Barrere and Pierre Henrotte. Taking advantage of their long association with leading personalities in the world of music, Georges Barrere, flutist, and Pierre Henrotte, formerly concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera House, will invite chamber music groups and well known vocalists and instrumentalists to participate at these Sunday afternoon events.

Celebrated Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henninger, Sr., of Lake Katrine celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday at the home of their son, William Henninger, of 130 Ten Broeck avenue. The party was a surprise to the couple, who found 28 children, grandchildren and friends gathered to help celebrate the occasion. The theme of gold was carried out in the decorations, even to a gold chest of money which was presented to the bride and groom of 50 years ago.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

For 5 o'clock flattery, this spring bride wears a suave shrug-shouldered afternoon frock of dark marine green crepe cut on slim lines. A diamond leaf brooch with natural pearl lily bells sets an exclamation point of beauty at the base of its vee neckline and a diamond chain bracelet with two dangling pearls swings over its close-fitting sleeve.

Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white silk chiffon with a finger tip veil caught at the crown with orange blossoms and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Sofia Skop, who wore a powder blue gown with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of white snap dragons. Arthur Hayes, brother of the groom, acted as best man. During the ceremony Val Skop, brother of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" accompanied at the organ by Theresa Gehring. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left on a short wedding trip. They will reside at 11 Hanratty street.

Special Musical Service Sunday
The choir of the Port Ewen Reformed Church, which has been organized for a little over a year, will present a special musical service Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The choir of 25 voices, under the direction of Miss Eva Clinton, organist and choir director, will be assisted by soloists and an instrumental ensemble under the direction of Leonard Stine.

Children's Party in Park
Ronald Mitchell, son of Mrs. Mary E. Mitchell of Washington avenue was host at a party in Forsyth Park Thursday afternoon in celebration of his ninth birthday. His guests were Billy McBride, Billy and David Ralff, Donald Kelly, John Terwilliger, Buddy Thompson, Robert Rogers, John Rich, Ward Dunham, Everett Tremellia, George Smith and Frank Dailey.

Personal Notes
Paul M. Young, Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul M. Young of 66 Clinton avenue, has returned for the summer from Gettysburg College.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gunzelmann of 114 Wrentham street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Linda May, born Memorial Day at the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Gunzelmann was formerly Miss Dorothy Hyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hyatt, of Van Deusen street.

Will Quit Hospital
Joseph Heidecamp, 17-year-old high school lad who had a narrow escape from drowning at Spring Lake Monday night, was reported today as very much improved and he was expected to leave the Benedictine Hospital later for his home. When Heidecamp jumped or slipped from a diving board in the darkness he is thought to have struck some object which resulted in a concussion. When he failed to appear on the surface companions rescued him and applied first aid which saved the lad's life.

Know How to Shine
At Friendly Talk

Gay Chatter Pleases the Men

A friendly twosome at the country club! Kay knows simple ways to put a man at ease, keep him interested with casual chatter.

"How's the cannon-ball serve progressing?" she asks Jack, deftly launching the talk on his favorite topic, tennis.

And when introduced to strangers, Kay's never at a loss—she breaks the ice with a comment on the day's news: "What a shame about that French ship I didn't have a chance to read the details, so perhaps you could tell me..."

She gets a friendly me-to-you spirit in her conversation by remembering names of people, using

Ward Has Praise For Music Hall

Edgar Melville Ward, 2nd, New York artist, who has been living in this city for some time, is the latest person to climb on the bandwagon with praise for the Town Players, the theatrical group which is presenting "Silas, the Choreboy," an old melodrama, at the Town Music Hall in Port Ewen. The players are observing Ladies' Night tonight.

"We are too sophisticated," he asserted. "If we could forget ourselves, we could enjoy ourselves as much as they did in the olden days. It is the higher things that appeal to us, yet those things can be done in a much simpler way... There are many theatres around that are trying to be intellectual; it takes simplicity to put things over."

Only two performances of "Silas, the Choreboy" will be given this week, tonight and tomorrow night.

Award for Actress

Los Angeles, June 2 (AP)—Fifty-six years of achievement on the stage and screen won Actress May Robson a citation from the American Institute of Cinematography. Honored at the institute's annual banquet for outstanding accomplishments during 1938 were Producers John W. Considine, Jr., Jack L. Warner and Gabriel Pascal; Actor Nelson Eddy; Actress Norma Shearer and Director Sam Wood.

Easy Cutwork Delight of Beginners

Household

Arts

by

Alice

Brooks

Your linen closet can be an indication of your good taste. Guest towels, pillow cases, tea cloths—all catch the eye of your guests. Where lovely linens such as these are yours for the making, there is no excuse for having those you hate to show. These are in cutwork (that's just buttonhole stitch) with a touch of plain embroidery that you can do in self-color or varied colors. You'll find corner motifs for scarfs and tea cloths, borders for towels and scarfs, all in one pattern. Any of these designs will make gifts that will give you pleasure in making and pride in giving. So start on some lovely linens, at once. Pattern 6331 contains a transfer pattern of 16 motifs ranging from 3 1/4 x 3 1/4 inches to 3 1/2 x 15 inches; materials needed; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send ten cents in coin to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

League Nominees Complete Course

With an examination this week the Junior League provisional members have completed a five-months' training course. Upon the completion of this course and 72 hours of work done in the league's welfare project, children's theatre division, hospital book service and other phases of Junior League work, these girls become active members.

The provisional course consists of instruction in the social, educational, economic, cultural and civic conditions of the community and the organization and purposes of the Junior League.

The first lecture in the course was given by Mrs. Robert R. Rodie. This lecture informed the group on the history and aims of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, its growth and development. Mrs. Rodie also told of the work accomplished by the local league in its baby clinic, now operated by the city, and the League Bureau, the headquarters of which are in the city hall.

Mrs. Alfred Schmid, the welfare chairman, then gave the girls a complete history of the League Bureau, its beginning and its aims. Under her supervision they worked in the bureau and became acquainted with the various phases of work done by it.

A lecture on the work done by the State Charities Aid was given by Mrs. Mary Doremus, acquainting the girls with that field of social service work.

Three lectures with special reference to civic problems were given. Miss Feeney gave a most interesting talk on the public health problem of the city. Charles Behrens lectured on the public welfare work done in the city and Mr. Kelder conducted a field trip to the City Home.

Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor gave a talk on the function of the city laboratory and its growth and development.

In the art division, Tomas Penning, sculptor of Woodstock, spoke on "Contrasting Traditional Art with the New" and Miss Anita Smith of Woodstock addressed them on "Herbs and Their Folk Lore."

Four lectures on orthopedies were given under the auspices of the orthopedic division of the state department of health by Dr. O'Donnell, Miss Teresa O'Shea and Miss Edith Eppler.

This course for the provisional members was conducted by Mrs. Robert Herzog, vice president and newly elected president for 1939-40. Mrs. Herzog and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport have returned recently from the national conference in Memphis.

Public Schools' Money Received

County Treasurer Vanderlyn T. Pine has received the second half of the public school money, amounting to $241,577.35, which has been distributed to the towns of the county and to central and union free school districts as follows:

Chapter 29
Paying Guests

"WHY DON'T you stay with the Macks?" Jocelyn asked Nola bluntly.

Nola carefully removed her suede gloves before answering. Her eyes were sparkling delightedly when she finally said:

"I only wish to help you out, Lyn. For the sake of long friendship. You must have guests in order to pay expenses. My money, so far as I know, is just as good as anyone else's. How many rooms have you rented so far?"

"None," Lyn grudgingly admitted. "But I will. It takes time and the ads have only been running three days."

"I know Thorn doesn't want me here," Nola shrugged. "But aren't you being rather narrow to resent me because of my personal differences with your brother? We all liked each other, Lyn. Why can't we go on being friends?" With an impulsive gesture she held out her hand.

Jocelyn took it in hers. A slow smile removed some of the aloofness from her face. "If you're sure you want me for a friend, Nola?"

"I do. And now may I have that perfectly divine sitting room on the front corner? I warn you I won't pay over fifteen dollars a day!" She laughed merrily, caught hold of Lyn's arm, and urged her toward the stairway. "I have a million things to tell you, darling."

Jocelyn listened and commented with outward composure, yet inside she seethed with unreasoning envy and jealousy. She knew it was stupid to feel this way, but her vivid imagination tortured her with pictures of Tally holding Nola in his arms, murmuring words of love to her, kissing her.

"Nola," she interrupted the other girl's flow of small talk with almost rude abruptness. "I have something to do. Please excuse me." She started toward the door she hoped her control would not slip until she got away from Nola's far too keen eyes.

"Why did you break off with Geoffrey?" Nola demanded. "I thought you'd be married by now."

"Ask Gramp," Lyn flung over her shoulder and fled precipitately. Nola, dining with Lyn and Thorn that night, appeared vastly amused at Thorn's frenzied desire to interest and please her, while Jocelyn writhed to see him being meek and anxious and subservient.

After dinner Nola changed into a simple knitted suit of soft scarlet wool, brushed out her silver-gold hair until it made a silky halo about her face, then proceeded around the fence to the Mack's abode.

Jocelyn, watching her go, felt a sick emptiness inside of her chest. Lovely Nola, exquisite Nola, Tally was not to be blamed for admiring her.

"Thorn," she said, "don't make a complete idiot of yourself. Can't you manage a little dignity? It won't do you any good to prostrate yourself at her feet. She wants Tally, you—you sap!"

I Love Him!

"ALL right, I am an idiot, a sap. But I love her, Lyn. I never wanted anyone but her. I'd still want her if she didn't have a penny to her name."

"But she doesn't want you," Jocelyn pointed out.

"Maybe I can win her back," he declared doggedly. "She loved me once. Look here, Lyn, let's be practical! This place isn't going to pay and you must realize it by now. Nobody has even asked for a price or a room. It's too out of the way for tourists. If you don't marry Tally, so we can sell this place, we'll starve."

"Very well; we'll starve. Do you think I'd go to him with a proposition like that? He's making a living, isn't he? We didn't worry about him starving, did we? No. We shoved him around with less consideration than we give our servants. I am in no position to ask a favor of him, and I won't."

"Then I'll have to try and marry Nola. She always wanted to marry her, anyhow."

"So you just said," Jocelyn wrinkled her nose in disgust. "It's too bad you didn't think about how much you wanted her before you kicked up a row. You only succeeded in pushing her into Tally's house and into his arms? You—you not only hurt yourself, Thorn, you—you messed up my life, too. I ought to hate you!"

Thorn gaped. "Lyn, you don't mean you actually fell in love with that—that?"

"Farmer," she choked. "Yes I did! I love him, do you understand?"

With a sob she turned and fled from the room.

"I won't go near him," Jocelyn decided the next morning as she dressed. "I won't talk to him or see him or anything. I'll have Nola. I don't care. There's lots of other men in the world and I'll get over this! I'll have to."

So deciding, she chose a dark blue frock with pleated skirt and white blouse collar. Thinking she really should look businesslike to be the proprietress of a hotel, she brushed her thick auburn hair into demure smoothness and turned the curling ends into a roll on her neck. It was five days now since she had inserted that ad in the papers. Surely someone would arrive today. She just had to make the place pay, just had to show Tally and Nola and the others that she could earn a living.

However, all decisions to the contrary, she strolled toward the stables after breakfast, having learned from the maid that Nola was still sleeping.

Simulating indifference to the plaintive whistling of Bury Me Not On the Lone Prairie, she stepped into Mephisto's stall and rubbed his velvety nose with her finger-tips.

"You'll have to wait until afternoon, Phisto," she told the fidgeting horse. "Don't you realize I'm a business woman?"

Hearing Tally approach the stall she suddenly put her arm about Mephisto's neck and squeezed tightly, afraid to stand away from him lest Tally observe her silly nervous trembling.

"Oh, Jocelyn," he said with casual friendliness, "I wondered if I could do some business with you? I could sell you milk, eggs, fresh vegetables, and your credit is good."

"I don't need credit," she informed him, still clinging to the pleased yet astonished horse. "Yet, if it will help you, I shall be glad to give you my business."

Dear Nola

SHE looked up and saw his eyes crinkling with laughter. "What's so funny?" she demanded, piqued.

"Oh, the idea of your trying to run a hotel, I guess. You're such a little bit of a thing. . . so young and inexperienced. . . and so darned determined. Honestly, Jocelyn, I take back what I said about you being helpless. I think you're swell. . . losing all of your money and coming through like this with your chin up. Let me help you, will you?"

"Th—thanks," she stammered. "Although I don't see what you can do."

"Figure ways to cut down your operating expense," he offered. "You could let your maids and your cook go—the groom, too. Mother, with Gretchen's help, could do the cooking for you, and Gretchen could help you with the cleaning. You wouldn't have to pay them so much and they would be pleased to earn some money for clothes. Then I could supply you with practically everything but meat. Isn't it a good idea, Jocelyn? Nola really planned it last night."

"Now, isn't that nice?" she mocked. "Dear Nola goes to much thought and trouble just to help me! Well, I don't need her help, or yours either! If you must hire your family out as servants, no doubt you'd do much better in the city. They could earn more money!"

He jerked backward as if she had slapped him. His face darkened with indignation. "I was wrong about you I see. You haven't changed. It's too bad you can't learn a few things about decency and courtesy from Nola!" Shoving his hands deep into his trousers pockets he turned and stamped out of the stable.

"Tally," Jocelyn whispered, "I didn't mean it. . ."

Mephisto whinnied softly and nuzzled her shoulder. "What makes me say such things, Phisto?" she choked. "He was really being kind and—I thought it was swell until he said it was Nola's idea. Am I really a horrid spoiled brat?"

He moved closer to her, unhappy at her trembling trying dumbly to comfort her and tell her he loved her.

Jocelyn, walking toward the front of the house, hating herself and wondering if apologizing would do any good, saw a yellow taxicab pull up in the driveway.

A little man wearing brand-new clothes peered at her from under the visor of a checkered cap pulled well down on his head. He took a newspaper from his overcoat pocket and tapped it with a nicotine-stained finger.

"This the place where you got rooms to rent, Miss?"

"Yes," she acknowledged. "Do you wish room and board?"

His weasel-like eyes darted appreciatively over the landscape. "Yeah, I guess so. Sure this place is secluded?"

"Certainly," she assured him. "We are three miles from Santa Barbara and more than a mile from the nearest house. No one will bother you here."

"Good." He took over a wallet, let thick with bills, and paid the taxi driver. "Tell him where to put my baggage, Miss."

Continued tomorrow.

Nova Stops Maxie Baer On Technical Knockout In 11th at Yankee Stadium

New York, June 2 (AP)—Victor over Max Baer by a technical knockout in the 11th round of a bloody duel at Yankee Stadium, Lou Nova of California stands qualified today to fight either Joe Louis or Tony Galento for the heavyweight championship in September or early next summer.

The 24-year-old ex-collegian, fighting only his 27th professional bout, cut the ex-champion down steadily and methodically until Referee Frank Fullam stopped it in 1:21 of the 11th when Baer was choked and unable to continue from the blood that poured from a badly lacerated lip.

Almost 17,000 fans oanked in the great arena saw the younger man survive a bushel of Baer's thunderous rights in the early rounds and come back to give him a cruel beating. Baer bled like a stuck hog from the third round on, and when it was over his face was a travesty.

Nova, his left ear blooming like an eggplant from Baer's despairing rights, said in the dressing room he would have stopped his rival clean as a whistle if he had not hurt his right maul in the third round. Maxie, looking and feeling terrible, said he didn't know whether he ever would fight again. At the same time he mumbled a warning to Nova:

"He's a good, strong boy, but he's a long way off. He gets hit too much."

Ready for Louis?

His listeners nodded agreement, most of them feeling in their bones that Lou, though he made a game, damaging fight against Baer, is not quite ready to get in the ring and face the dynamite blasts of Joe Louis. Nova's manager, Ray Carlin, said he wanted a few days to think it over before deciding whether to tackle the poisonous, big negro this year.

From the start, last night's fight was a rip-tearing, brutal exhibition that kept the spectators on their feet. There was no feeling-out. They went at it right now, slugging and grunting and scowling, hitting on the bases and after the bell. The referee took two rounds from Nova for hitting low and one from Maxie when he clouted Lou an awful smash after the bell.

At the end of ten rounds the Associated Press sheet gave Nova six chapters and Max four. During the ninth and tenth rounds Nova hit his tired, distressed rival almost at will, smashing his bloody features with both hands as Max spewed crimson all over the ring. Fullam wanted to stop it earlier in the 11th, but Maxie refused the reprieve and took a dozen more blows before he consented to retire.

Kept on Fighting

The fight really was decided in the second, when Baer suddenly lashed out with his famous old right and caught Nova cold with a half dozen in fast succession. That was when Baer's followers had expected the bout to end. But Nova proved strong and resolute and didn't go down. He wobbled and staggered a bit from the fusillade, but he stuck to his feet and came back fighting.

In Baer's other good round, the sixth, he again rocked the youngster with a series of rights, once almost spilling him. Yet again the kid shook them off and at the end was jabbing away at Maxie's jumbled features with his long left. The round house punch that Baer laid on the seventh, after the bell ended the seventh, hurt Lou and sent him staggering to his corner, but he came up fresh as a daisy to belabor Max in the eighth.

In the long run, it was Nova's straight left, delivered with all his 202 pounds behind it, that ruined Baer's comeback. The veteran didn't know how to escape the stabbing leather, and gradually as the round went on it cut him to pieces. Now and then Nova went into action with both hands, standing and slugging, but he owed his victory to his left. The occasional right that he crossed seemed to shake Baer, but never threatened to put him down. After last night it's clear Nova is no knockout artist, though the punishment he meted out might have forced Baer to quit in the last few rounds even had Max's lip not been cut.

Blames Fair

Promoter Mike Jacobs was mad as a wet hen about the skinny crowd that turned out and still was threatening to send the Louis-Galento fight to another city, perhaps Philadelphia. He blamed the World's Fair for holding the gross gate to $82,364.

MELIO BETTINA

New York, June 2 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today that Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., recognized in New York state as the light heavyweight champion of the world, will fight Billy Conn of Pittsburgh on July 13 for the title. The fight will probably be held in Yankee Stadium.

Colonials Play Two Sunday With Troy Bearcats Here Facing Upstate Mound Star

Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, it'll be the Kingston Colonials vs. the Troy Bearcats in a double-header at the Athletic Field. Manager Fred Davi of the local club hopes to see his tossers come through.

"I think we have a good chance," he said today. "With Joe Brown and Charlie Neff rested and ready for mound duty." Brown checked the Trojans with five hits in the Colonials' win over them before, and Neff has been showing high calibre flinging in the state loop.

Troy is counting on taking one game at least, the one Mark Filly pitches. This flinger, now a lawyer with a nice practice in the collar city, has had experience in the International League, having tossed for Albany in that circuit, and also in the Texas League and with the Washington Senators.

Backers of the Troy club were very much put out when the Colonials trimmed their boys before, because the upstarters were heavy favorites to take over the new entry in the state loop. Last year Troy tied with the Mohawks for the championship, but the series was never played.

Just Keeps Riding

London, June 2 (AP)—A wizened little fellow named Billy Bullock scrambled off Ridley, winner of the Northern Stakes, yesterday. It was 31 years to the day since he rode the filly Signoretta, a 100-1 shot, to triumph in the 1908 Derby. No one knows his age or how he does it. Everyone knows why. For although he rode Signoretta to triumph first in the Derby, then in the Oaks, he never became a really fashionable jockey. So he just keeps riding for ham and eggs—or as they say over here—fish and chips money.

If you wish people to hold you in high esteem there are two important things to do. One is to behave yourself and the other is to acquire wealth.

That pro boxing show in Wood-cliff Park Wednesday night drew a $629 gate....Promoter Barney Williams is counting on Tommy Zano of Kingston to pack in a flock of fans from Ulster county for the next bill there on June 7. ...And Kingston amateur fight directors are banking on Carmine Virgilio, the knockout artist, and Tony Gartz, his fellow Poughkeepsie, to draw a record attendance from the Bridge City to the municipal auditorium on Friday night, June 9....There are no bouts at the Broadway palace of punch tonight....Lou Knapp is more than happy over his team's first victory in the City League...."We're going to town from now on," he said....His boys showed plenty of fire and dash....Says Jimmy Geoghan: "Pie Murphy went behind the platter for the first time this season last night, and Dick Dulin camped out in back of first base for a change of climate....Murphy kept the boys hustling all the way. Nice going, Pie!"

Bob "Schoolboy" Bush is not with Phoenixia any more....He and Manager Bill Malloy did a bit of feuding last Sunday....The pilot of the Mountaineers claims Bush refused to warm up when ordered....Looks like the sports writers voted right on that Nova thing last night....Baer tried to look stern and determined while they were fixing his gloves, but before the ceremony was over he had either bowed or winked at everybody in the gallery....This is what Eddie Briez says anyhow, and adds, "That will give you an idea of the size of the crowd!"

From Mike Jacobs comes this one: "Looks like I'll have to take the big ones out of New York....Bob Cullum, rotund ball tosser of the American Basketball League, reports losing 10 pounds in two weeks, using a diet given to him by Al Melville, local stunt swimmer....Jolly Bob is slated because he's been trying to shed the extra avoirdupois for a long time, but it wouldn't come off even with an over-abundance of physical exercise during the cage season....Bill Thomas will be in the Jones Dairy lineup tonight when this club takes issue with the Independents in the City League....Sunday, starting at 2 p. m., the Colonials play Troy in a double-header at the Athletic Field."

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

In the won and lost columns it all looks the same, but there are two ways to break up an extra inning baseball game—power or science.

Both methods were demonstrated spectacularly yesterday. The Cincinnati Reds, who have virtually surpassed the New York Yankees as exponents of the power play, exploded five runs in the faces of the Boston Bees to win 9-4 in the 13th inning. The Brooklyn Dodgers downed the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in their night game when Gene Moore tripled and stole home in the 14th.

There is no fault to be found with either system but the Reds' way causes less fretting. They simply loaded the bases in the fourth overtime period and followed this up with a single by Will Herschberger and a home run, his fifth of the season, by Harry Craft.

Triple at Midnight

The Dodgers went in for more drama. A near-capacity crowd of 32,574 was on hand to see the rivals who had played a 9-9 tie in 19 innings before darkness fell at Chicago May 17. They tossed in a triple play at midnight—which must be something new in the annals of baseball—and presented the victory to Vito Tamulis, the hard luck pitcher who had worked the last 11 innings of their previous stalemate with the Cubs as well as an 11-inning tie with Philadelphia in the third game of the season.

Tamulis, fourth Brooklyn hurler, took over with the bases loaded in the 12th and worked effectively thereafter, passing his crisis in the 12th when the first two men singled and were erased by the triple killing. Attempting to punt, Jim Gleason popped to Harry Lavagetto, who trapped the ball and threw to Dolph Camilli at first. One runner was tagged, the base touched and the other runner nabbed between second and third.

The loss dropped Chicago into fourth place in the National League as the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded on the Phillies 5-2 in another night game and climbed into third place. A home run by Bill Brubaker broke a tie in the eighth inning and gave the Pirates their winning impetus.

In another thriller typical of the senior circuit the New York Giants 1-0 on a disputed double by Johnny Mize and an error in the ninth inning. The Giants argued so violently Mize was out at second that two of them were ordered out of the game. It was the fourth victory without defeat for Fiddler Bill McGee, who gave only five hits.

Gomez Good

The Yankees pounded out their customary big inning—a four run rumpus in the eighth—to beat the Cleveland Indians 8-3 and maintain their margin at the top of the American League. Lefty Gomez had one of his better days and gave up only one hit for seven innings.

Boston's Red Sox walloped the Detroit Tigers 14-5 with Eldon Auker keeping his former teammates under control on eight hits—one of them Hank Greenberg's tenth homer of the year.

The Washington Senators beat the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics stopped the St. Louis Browns by identical scores, 10-7. Both were hitting battles with six pitchers being used in each game.

Guldahl Sure He'll Win Open

New York, June 2 (AP)—Big Ralph Guldahl, who may make modern golf history by winning his third straight U. S. Open championship next week is a confident cuss. You have to admire him for it.

The bookmakers have made the Madison (N. J.) professional 6-1 favorite to repeat at the Philadelphia Country Club his 1937 and 1938 open victories. Ralph feels they're quite justified in doing so.

"I have a definite feeling about the open—that I'll win it or at least be in the running all the way," he said today before teeing off on the second round of the 126-hole, $5,000 Goodall round-robin tournament.

Guldahl, matched with Olin Dutra and Ben Hogan for his second in the Goodall round-robin, was in an advantageous position.

Boiceville Rangers Win Over Grunenwalds 7-2; Jones-Wiltwycks Tonight

Shelling Red Sleigh from the mound, the Boiceville Rangers swept through a hapless Grunenwald outfit for a 6-run fifth inning outburst to win 7-2 last night. Turned back in four games, the Rangers cut loose with a 6-run rally to insure their initial City Loop win at the Athletic Field.

Jones Dairy clashes with Gus Steigerwald's Wiltwyck A. C. in tonight's attraction at the Athletic Field. The Dairyemen, roosting in second place with two won and two lost for 500, need this game to retain a chance of overtaking the Independents. The Ice House Gang conquered Grunenwalds by a 5-4 count on Monday's encounter and will be out for their second straight win.

With the veteran Red Lane twirling a natty four-hitter, the Rangers came from behind last night to scalp the fooling Grunies, throttling them after the first frame. Grunies jumped off to a 2-0 edge in the opener (Boiceville's jinx all season) and the Rangers seemed doomed for another defeat.

Lamb walked, stole second, took third on Davis' error of Purvis' short fly and came home on Hanley's liner to Zoller. Purvis tallied on Kelder's rap to left to put Lane behind the eight-ball. The fighting Knappmen came back with one counter in the fourth when Ray Schneider rapped a tremendous wild pitch into the left field corner against the freight shed scoring Bush.

Rangers Scalp Sleigh

Shelling Sleigh from the hill with a six-run hurricane, the Rangers wowed the crowd insuring a hot time in Boiceville. Eleven men teed off on Sleigh and Strubel and when the carnage ceased, six Rangers hit home plate. Davis opened with a bingle and Bush and Nussbaum biffed hits for three runs after Hughes popped to Pepper. North walked and Schneider's single scored Bush.

Sleigh departed to the showers and Strubel, the Bakerboys' fireman, took over. Zoller's free pass and Sickle's neat single accounted for two more tallies before Davis lined straight at Dulin with the sacks populated to capacity. Ahead 7-2, the Rangers flashed sensational term afield with Buddy Hughes turning in a grand game at short. Hughes gobbled eight chances for a nifty defensive performance.

Lane Flings Well

Boiceville's Red Lane came through with another well-hurled game. Lane's slow deliberate style and baffling hook stymied the Bakers as the red-headed hurler was supreme in the clutch. Lane has hurled a lot of ball games "in them thar hills" but last night he stopped the city slickers cold.

Sleigh fanned seven in his four-inning stint and walked one but Boiceville's rampage ruined a swell evening for the Grunies' right-hander. Strubel's wildness in a relief role kept the Rangers rolling as they went to town in a big way.

Davis, Bush, Nussbaum and Schneider collected two bingles apiece to show the way with the willow. Lamb, Dulin, Kelder and Strubel were credited with the Bakers' four scattered safeties.

2 More Coaches Added to School

DeOrmond (Tuss) McLaughry, coach of Brown University, and Harry Stuhldreher, coach of Wisconsin, have been added to the faculty for the fifth annual football coaching school, sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune, which will be held in the Man Building at the World's Fair, August 28 to September 1.

With the addition of these two outstanding teachers of the game, Lou Little, of Columbia, dean of the school since its inception, announced that the program for the week was complete. McLaughry, noted as the inventor of the triple-wing formation, will talk on "Offensive Variations." Stuhldreher, quarterback of the famed "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame and successful coach at Villanova before he moved into the Big Ten field, will talk on "Quarterback Strategy."

McLaughry's day at the school will be Thursday, August 31. Stuhldreher will wind up the school Friday, September 1.

Child Is Born Dead To Roosevelt Couple

Boston, June 2 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made known today that a child was born to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Roosevelt, wife of the youngest son of the President.

The child arrived "prematurely" at the Lying-in Hospital of the Richardson House, Mrs. Roosevelt said. She said that the mother was in "fine condition." The President's wife, who arrived here last night after suddenly cancelling all her engagements said she would visit the hospital today.

John Roosevelt, she added, was "naturally disappointed" by the premature birth.

The society wedding of the couple in Nahant last June was attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The arrival of the grandchild was not anticipated until July, and Mrs. Roosevelt had announced that the former Ann Lindsay Clarke would be unable to attend the reception to the King and Queen.

Securities Were Down Thursday

After a week of steady gains the market lost ground yesterday, and although final prices were above the lows for the day, losses were shown in all classes of securities. Volume remained low, total for the day being 600,000 shares. Industrial issues, as measured in the Dow-Jones list, showed a loss of 1.98 points for the day, closing at 136.20; rails were off 0.50 point, to 27.95; utilities declined 0.27 point, to 23.40. Commodities followed stocks downward, the Dow-Jones index being off 0.36 point for the day. With heavy selling cotton futures showed losses of from seven to 14 points. There was activity in the wool tops market, transactions being around 460,000 pounds; New York spot price was 86½ cents, up half a cent a pound. Some mills raised prices on overcoats and topcoatings five cents a yard. Wheat reacted on better weather reports and prices in Chicago closed 1½ to ½ lower. Wheat continued fairly active with estimated sales of 15,000,000 yards yesterday and it is estimated that a total of more than 50,000,000 yards has changed hands since the buying movement started last week.
The foreign situation loomed up again yesterday as disappointment was evidenced over the speech of Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov and industrial and rail averages on the Lower World Street continued fairly active with estimated sales of 15,000,000 yards yesterday and it is estimated that a total of more than 50,000,000 yards has changed hands since the buying movement started last week.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

There was a rise in electric output last week, total of 2,170,496,000 kwh being 11.7 per cent over the same week last year. The engineering construction awards totaled $39,857,000 for the week ended June 1, being a decline of 12 per cent from the 1938 week. Residential building in May is reported to have been the best for any month since October, 1929. An estimated total of around $130,000,000 for the month in 37 eastern states is 15 per cent ahead of April and more than 50 per cent ahead of May, 1938.
It is estimated that business of the chemical companies for the last six months of this year will show a gain over the first half. Some net income reports for the three months ended April 30 include: American Power & Light, $2,600,117, vs. $3,016,347 in the same period last year. Continental Motors, net of $15,430 vs. net loss year ago of $29,693. Royal Type-writer, $520,187, vs. $254,223. United Gas, $2,314,507 (for March 31 quarter) vs. $2,398,150. Doehler & Coasting $139,585, vs. $80,176.
For the six months ended April 30 Seiberling Rubber shows net of $403,576, or $1.27 a common share, vs. loss of $44,955, in the 1938 period.
B. F. Goodrich will cut interest charges by calling $18,319,200 of six per cent debentures due in 1945, paying 103 and accrued interest. Will use $18,000,000 in bank loans at three per cent and cash from company's treasury.
President Sawyer of National Power & Light told stockholders that the system's gross revenues would be cut some $13,500,000 by sale of the company's properties in the Tennessee Valley.
The Pennsylvania Railroad has asked that "reasonable participation" be allowed common stockholders in the reorganization of the New Haven Railroad. Pennsylvania owns 319,925 shares of New Haven stock. Under the pending reorganization plan common stockholders could receive nothing for their holdings.

BRITISH SUBMARINE RESCUE APPARATUS

English submarine crewmen are shown as they were trained at Fort Blockhouse, Gosport, Eng., in the use of the Davis submarine escape apparatus which the men aboard the sunken sub Thetis may use to rise to the surface from that vessel, which sank off Great Ormes Head, England, while making a test dive. All 78 hands aboard the Thetis are equipped with this escape apparatus—similar to the Momsen 'lung' used by United States submarines.

No Program at Fair for Ulster

It is said that the plan to put on an entertainment program at the World's Fair on June 26, Ulster county day, has been given up.

The idea seems to be that the fair is so vast and entertainment features on so large a scale, outside of the multitude of features offered by the exhibition itself, that anything of an ordinary nature would attract no attention at all.
One visitor to the fair recently noted that a program which included a governor, a senator or two and other outstanding personages, attracted but a couple of hundred or so people, although seats had been provided for 5,000.

Britons Labor To Save Sailors

lung device, and salvage equipment was being rushed to the spot.
This was about 14 miles northwest of Great Ormes Head, a Welsh promontory not far from where the craft dived.
Captain H. P. K. Oram, who survived the H-47 and L-12 submarine collision in 1929 in which 21 died, was one of the first to escape. He is now commander of the fifth British submarine flotilla and was captain of the L-12.
With him, to direct salvage operations and report on the submarine's condition, were two members of the crew, and F. Shaw of Cammer Laird Company, which had a party of 20 to 40 or more technicians aboard.
At Depth of 130 Feet
The Thetis was in 130 feet of water. An official of Mersey Docks and Harbor Board said the "work of rescue continues, and there is a good prospect of salvaging the submarine."
The Davis escape apparatus was first placed on British undersea vessels in 1934 with the admonition "no more steel tombs—save yourselves."
It is a bag which is strapped to the chest to act as a lifebuoy. An oxygen cylinder is attached, feeding by tube into the mouth, with a clip preventing nose breathing.
Seamen enter an escape compartment in small groups. The compartment is flooded slowly to equalize pressure to that outside the hull—a two-hour process—whereafter the hatch is opened and the seamen rise to the surface.
The water is drained into bilge tanks and the process repeated until all have left. The lungs were used in 1931 when the Poseidon sank in Chinese waters, but several persons died during or after the ascent.
The admiralty's announcement that the Thetis was found, made about 8:20 a. m. (2:30 a. m. EST). This was followed by statements from both the builders and from the admiralty that the men were then safe.

METTACAHONTS

Pneumonia Drug Proves Effective

New York, June 2 (AP)—Sulfa-pyridine, medicine's new remedy for pneumonia, has changed the entire aspect of this disease in childhood, Dr. Charles Hendee Smith of New York told the American Academy of Pediatrics today.

He and other physicians told of more than 100 child lives saved in the last winter by sulfa-pyridine, a drug which is yet not a year old in medical practice.

Since last fall its use has spread widely over the civilized world. Among children, Dr. Smith said, the death rate has been high in infants, low in older children. The sulfa-pyridine saves many infants and shortens the course of illness of the older children.

Type 19 is the pneumonia most deadly for infants, he said. The sulfa-pyridine is just as effective against this type as any other.

He told of 50 cases of child pneumonia in which the sulfa-pyridine reduced temperature to normal in 24 hours. He and other doctors agreed that these life-saving results are confined to the usual form of pneumonia which is caused by the pneumococcus germ.

It is not very effective against pneumonias caused by streptococci and pertussis, or whooping cough infections.

Dr. Gilbert M. Jorgensen, of the Babies Hospital, New York city, told of 100 child pneumonia cases treated with sulfa-pyridine with only one death, which was due to heart disease. Of this 100, 45 per cent were under two and 25 per cent under one.

Among good reasons why we should watch our step is that others are doing so with a critical eye.

Organ Program To End Series

Mrs. Myrtle Thompson Jordan, organist of the Church of the Ascension in West Park, will give the final recital of the series of four which she has been giving on the new Hammond organ which was recently installed in the church.

All who have attended the three recitals given thus far have been most enthusiastic in their approval of Mrs. Jordan's ability and artistry. Her programs have been outstanding for the variety of organ music selected, and showed the wide range of the organist's repertoire.

Next Sunday, June 4, the last of the series will be given at 4 p. m. This program will be made up entirely of religious music and will include works by Schumann, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Handel.

Academy Grounds Scene Of Lawn Fete

The annual garden party of the Academy of St. Ursula, sponsored by the Mothers' Association, was held Thursday afternoon and evening under ideal weather conditions, and was well attended by both adults and children.

Booths and tables were scattered throughout the grounds under the large trees and were attractively decorated to catch the eye of the visitor.

One booth that proved most fascinating to the children was that housing young baby Persian kittens. The doll booth, in charge of Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, the candy and flower booth, in charge of Mrs. Francis O'Connor and Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, and the tables of fancy articles and basket work made by the patients at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, in charge of Miss Margaret O'Sullivan, also were well patronized.

Other booths on the grounds were the cake booth in charge of Mrs. C. J. Heitzman and Mrs. William Burns, the balloon booth in charge of Mrs. Raymond Droulette and the ten center in charge of Mrs. Thomas Donovan and Mrs. Howard Murdoch.

At one end of the garden 15 tables of bridge were in play and at the other end was the children's grove where swings, slides and games kept the younger generation busy while the mothers were enjoying cards. The children's grove was in charge of Mrs. Michael Powers and Mrs. John Weber. Mrs. Thomas F. Crowley and Mrs. J. Edward Conway had charge of the cards. Another feature always seen at the St. Ursula garden party is the religious booth which this year was presided over by Mrs. Patrick McManus and Mrs. William Keating.

During the afternoon movies of local pictures taken during the year and comics for the children were shown by John Van Gonsic. A supper was served some 200 people in the evening under the direction of Mrs. David Flaherty, Mrs. Peter Camp and Mrs. Thomas Purvis, and a social party under the direction of Mrs. Julia Kane, Mrs. J. E. Phelan and Mrs. John Saravan was held in the evening.

D. A. R. Officers Installed Thursday

The installation of officers and annual reports of Willwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, brought to a close the season's activities Thursday afternoon.

The annual reports were given by Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, secretary; Mrs. William C. Kingman, treasurer; Mrs. W. Dean Hays, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. R. H. D. Boecker, registrar, who reported the 47th year was closing with a membership of 543.

Other annual reports were made by chairmen of the following committees: Americanism, Mrs. Hiram Whitney; auditing, Mrs. James W. Scott; chapter advisor to the Junior Group, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; correct use of the flag, Mrs. Howard R. St. John; D. A. R. magazine and motion pictures, Mrs. G. N. Wood; national defense, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; program, Mrs. Clarence Dumm; press relations, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger; resolutions, Mrs. David Terry; and radio, Mrs. Maynard Mizel.

Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence, chaplain of Willwyck Chapter, installed the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger; first vice regent, Mrs. William Macgregor

Mills; second vice regent, Mrs. Howard St. John; recording secretary, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. O. Allen; treasurer, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; historian, Mrs. Homer Emerick; registrar, Mrs. R. H. D. Boecker; chaplain, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence; and librarian, Mrs. Adam Porter.

Members of the local board also installed Thursday were Mrs. C. Ray Everett, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. G. N. Wood.

Mrs. Burdette Tuttle, retiring regent, reviewed the year's work of the chapter and thanked the members for their splendid cooperation. She then presented Mrs. Terwilliger with the regent's pin, who in turn thanked the group for the honor they had bestowed upon her, saying that she accepted it with the responsibilities it carried and hoped, with the support of the officers, to make Willwyck Chapter a continued strong influence in the community.

Chairmen of the standing committees were appointed by Mrs. Terwilliger as follows: Americanism, Mrs. Hiram Whitney; approved schools, Junior Group, auditing, Mrs. James W. Scott; chapter advisor of Junior Group, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; correct use of the flag, Mrs. W. Dean Hays; Ellis Island co-chairmen, Mrs. Harris C. Inglis and Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey; entertainment, Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm; hospitality, Mrs. David Terry and Mrs. William A. Frey; house, Mrs. William Lawton; librarian, Mrs. Adam Porter; motion picture, Mrs. Howard St. John; music, Mrs. A. H. Van Buren; national defense, Mrs. Raymond R. Gross; national historical magazine, Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck; press relations, Mrs. Burdette Tuttle; program, Miss Louise W. van Hovenberg; reception, board of trustees; pilgrimage, Miss L. May Quimby; resolutions, Mrs. William E. Simmons; radio, Mrs. Maynard Mizel.

Mrs. Terwilliger announced the formation of a new committee, girl homemakers, which will be in charge of the Junior Group.

Announcements were made of the Hudson Valley D. A. R. conference Saturday at the Borwick House, Coxsack, and the Flag Day party, June 14, for chapter members and their friends. Cards will be played and a motion picture, "The American Way," will be shown at 3:15.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. H. Chambers and Mrs. Ralph Gregory.

Stay-at-Home Camp Planned For YWCA

The Y. W. C. A. will again conduct the annual stay-at-home camp for school girls for three weeks in July, offering girls many of the advantages of camp without the necessity of going away from their families. The schedule will provide a four-day program each week, two days being spent out-of-doors and two at the association building. Swimming instruction will be a major emphasis. The program will also include nature study, dramatics, music, handicraft, interpretive dancing, and general recreation, as well as some surprise features. Only 40 campers will be admitted, since it is impossible to safely take a larger number with the existing facilities, and they will be accepted in the order of registration.

The Y. W. C. A. staff will generally supervise the camp and they will be assisted by a group of counselors, who are now being recruited. Those attending the planning meeting for the camp were Mrs. Theron Culver, chairman, and Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Mrs. Harry Walker, Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Mrs. Adam Thiel, Mrs. Ward Bringham, Mrs. Joseph Craig, Miss Mary Staples, Miss Lillian Herdman and Miss Jean Estey.

Further details regarding the camp may be secured from members of the committee or at the "Y" office.

Sunday Concerts at Woodstock
Robert Elwyn announces 10 Sunday afternoon concerts at his New Woodstock Playhouse beginning July 2 at 4:30 p. m. Mr. Elwyn has decided to give the entire artistic direction of this series to Georges Barrere and Pierre Henrotte. Taking advantage of their long association with leading personalities in the world of music, Georges Barrere, flutist, and Pierre Henrotte, formerly concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera House, will invite chamber music groups and well known vocalists and instrumentalists to participate at these Sunday afternoon events.

Celebrated Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henninger, Sr., of Lake Katrine celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday at the home of their son, William Henninger, of 130 Ten Broeck avenue. The party was a surprise to the couple, who found 28 children, grandchildren and friends gathered to help celebrate the occasion. The theme of gold was carried out in the decorations, even to a gold chest of money which was presented to the bride and groom of 50 years ago.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

For 5 o'clock flattery, this spring bride wears a suave shrug-shouldered afternoon frock of dark maroon green crepe cut on slim lines. A diamond leaf brooch with natural pearl lily bells sets an exclamation point of beauty at the base of its vee neckline and a diamond chain bracelet with two dangling pearls swings over its close-fitting sleeve.

Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white silk chiffon with a finger tip veil caught at the crown with orange blossoms and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Sofia Skop, who wore a powder blue gown with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of white snap dragons. Arthur Hayes, brother of the groom, acted as best man. During the ceremony Val Skop, brother of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" accompanied at the organ by Theresa Gehring. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left on a short wedding trip. They will reside at 11 Hanover street.

Special Musical Service Sunday
The choir of the Port Ewen Reformed Church, which has been organized for a little over a year, will present a special musical service Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The choir of 25 voices, under the direction of Miss Eva Clinton, organist and choir director, will be assisted by soloists and an instrumental ensemble under the direction of Leonard Stine.

Children's Party in Park
Ronald Mitchell, son of Mrs. Mary E. Mitchell of Washington avenue was host at a party in Forsyth Park Thursday afternoon in celebration of his ninth birthday. His guests were Billy McBride, Billy and David Hall, Donald Kelly, John Terwilliger, Buddy Thompson, Robert Rogers, John Rich, Ward Dunham, Everett Tremelina, George Smith and Frank Dailey.

Personal Notes
Paul M. Young, Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul M. Young of 66 Clinton avenue, has returned for the summer from Gettysburg College.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gunzelmann of 114 Wrentham street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Linda May, born Memorial Day at the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Gunzelmann was formerly Miss Dorothy Hyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hyatt, of Van Deusen street.

To Be on Air
The Rev. C. P. Muyskens, former pastor of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, will be the officiating clergyman on the "Church of the Air" program heard over the Columbia broadcasting network through station WABC Sunday, June 4, from 1 to 1:30 p. m.

A FRILLY BOLERO FROCK

PATTERN 9083

You'll look for all the world like a lace-edged valentine in this Marian Martin frock that joins the back-to-frills-and-femininity movement. A festive style, yet the clear directions of the Sew-chart make Pattern 9083 simple enough for any first-try seamstress. The perky bolero jacket is the latest in style. The plain, four-piece skirt has a high, heart-shaped waistline. Let your needle go sentimental on the soft, airy bodice when its prettily shirred or gathered shoulders. The sleeves that just cover your shoulders are cool and dressy.

Pattern 9083 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16, entire ensemble, requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric and 3/4 yards lace edging.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Swing into summer in a light-hearted mood with a wardrobe-full of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering MARIAN MARTIN'S NEW PATTERN BOOK and stitching up your summer things at home. You'll find, be-frilled street frocks... be-glamored evening wear. The new blouse and "little girl" trends! Sportswear, sea-and-sun styles, housefrocks, sheers and prints. Clothes for tiny tots, teens and twenties; slimming styles for matrons. Order a copy now! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Will Quit Hospital

Joseph Heidecamp, 17-year-old high school lad who had a narrow escape from drowning at Spring Lake Monday night, was reported today as very much improved and he was expected to leave the Benedictine Hospital later for his home. When Heidecamp jumped or slipped from a diving board in the darkness, he is thought to have struck some object which resulted in a concussion. When he failed to appear on the surface, companions rescued him and applied first aid which saved the lad's life.

Know How to Shine At Friendly Talk

Gay Chatter Pleases the Men

A friendly twosome at the country club! Kay knows simple ways to put a man at ease, keep him interested with casual chatter.

"How's the cannon-ball serve progressing?" she asks Jack, deftly launching the talk on his favorite topic, tennis.

And when introduced to strangers, Kay's never at a loss—she breaks the ice with a comment on the day's news: "What a shame about that French ship! I didn't have a chance to read the details, so perhaps you could tell me..."

She gets a friendly me-to-you spirit in her conversation by remembering names of people, using

Ward Has Praise For Music Hall

Edgar Melville Ward, 2nd, New York artist, who has been living in this city for some time, is the latest person to climb on the bandwagon with praise for the Town Players, the theatrical group which is presenting "Silas, the Choreboy," an old melodrama, at the Town Music Hall in Port Ewen. The players are observing Ladies' Night tonight.

"We are too sophisticated," he asserted. "If we could forget ourselves, we could enjoy ourselves as much as they did in the olden days. It is the higher things that appeal to us, yet those things can be done in a much simpler way... There are many theatres around that are trying to be intellectual; it takes simplicity to put things over."

Only two performances of "Silas, the Choreboy" will be given this week, tonight and tomorrow night.

Award for Actress

League Nominees Complete Course

With an examination this week the Junior League provisional members have completed a five-months' training course. Upon the completion of this course and 72 hours of work done in the league's welfare project, children's theatre division, hospital book service and other phases of Junior League work, these girls become active members.

The provisional course consists of instruction in the social, educational, economic, cultural and civic conditions of the community and the organization and purposes of the Junior League.

The first lecture in the course was given by Mrs. Robert R. Rodie. This lecture informed the group on the history and aims of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, its growth and development. Mrs. Rodie also told of the work accomplished by the local league in its baby clinic, now operated by the city, and the League Bureau, the headquarters of which are in the city hall.

Mrs. Alfred Schmid, the welfare chairman, then gave the girls a complete history of the League Bureau, its beginning and its aims. Under her supervision they worked in the bureau and became acquainted with the various phases of work done by it.

A lecture on the work done by the State Charities Aid was given by Mrs. Mary Doremus, acquainting the girls with that field of social service work.

Three lectures with special reference to civic problems were given. Miss Feeney gave a most interesting talk on the public health problem of the city. Charles Behrens lectured on the public welfare work done in the city and Mr. Kelder conducted a field trip to the City Home.

Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor gave a talk on the function of the city laboratory and its growth and development.

In the art division, Tomas Penning, sculptor of Woodstock, spoke on "Contrasting Traditional Art with the New" and Miss Anita Smith of Woodstock addressed them on "Herbs and Their Folk Lore."

Four lectures on orthopedics were given under the auspices of the orthopedic division of the state department of health by Dr. O'Donnell, Miss Teresa O'Shea and Miss Edith Eppler.

This course for the provisional members was conducted by Mrs. Robert Herzog, vice president and newly elected president for 1939-40. Mrs. Herzog and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport have returned recently from the national conference in Memphis.

Presence of Mind
New York, June 2 (AP)—Talk about presence of mind—Lou Nova, sweat, blood and water dripping from his head, sat on a rubbering table after belting out Max Baer in 11 rounds last night. He was asked to say a few words for the benefit of newspapers, the newsreels and posterity. In the full glare of the Klieg lights someone yelled: "Go ahead and Lou, the warrior, cocked his one good eye and queried: "Is the sound man ready?"

Nova Stops Maxie Baer On Technical Knockout In 11th at Yankee Stadium

New York, June 2 (AP)—Victor over Max Baer by a technical knockout in the 11th round of a bloody duel at Yankee Stadium, Lou Nova of California stands qualified today to fight either Joe Louis or Tony Galento for the heavyweight championship in September or early next summer.

The 24-year-old ex-collegian, fighting only his 27th professional bout, cut the ex-champion down steadily and methodically until Referee Frank Fullam stopped it in 1:41 of the 11th when Baer was choked and unable to continue from the blood that poured from a badly lacerated lip.

Almost 17,000 fans packed in the great arena saw the younger man survive a bushel of Baer's thunderous rights in the early rounds and come back to give him a cruel beating. Baer bled like a stuck hog from the third round on, and when it was over his face was a travesty.

Nova, his left ear blooming like an eggplant from Baer's despairing rights, said in the dressing room he would have stopped his rival clean as a whistle if he had not hurt his right maul in the third round. Maxie, looking and feeling terrible, said he didn't know whether he ever would fight again. At the same time he mumbled a warning to Nova.

"He's a good, strong boy, but he's a long way off. He gets hit too much."

His listeners nodded agreement, most of them feeling in their bones that Lou, though he made a game, damaging fight against Baer, is not quite ready to get in the ring and face the dynamite blasts of Joe Louis. Nova's manager, Ray Carlin, said he wanted a few days to think it over before deciding whether to tackle the poisonous, big negro this year.

From the start, last night's fight was a rip-tearing, brutal exhibition that kept the spectators on their feet. There was no feeling-out. They went at it right now, slugging and grunting and scowling, hitting on the breaks and after the bell. The referee took two rounds from Nova for hitting low and one from Maxie when he clouted Lou an awful smash after the bell.

At the end of ten rounds the Associated Press score sheet gave Nova six chapters and Max four. During the ninth and tenth rounds Nova hit his tired, distressed rival almost at will, smashing his bloody features with both hands as Max spewed crimson all over the ring. Fullam wanted to stop it earlier in the 11th, but Maxie refused the reprieve and took a dozen more blows before he consented to retire.

Kept on Fighting

The fight really was decided in the second, when Baer suddenly lashed out with his famous old right and caught Nova cold with a half dozen in fast succession. That was when Baer's followers had expected the bout to end. But Nova proved strong and resolute and didn't go down. He wobbled and staggered a bit from the fusillade, but he stuck to his feet and came back fighting.

In Baer's other good round, the sixth, he again rocked the youngster with a series of rights, once almost spilling him. Yet again the kid shook them off and at the end was jabbing away at Maxie's jumbled features with his long left. The round house punch that Baer laid on Nova's whiskers, after the bell ended the seventh, hurt Lou and sent him staggering to his corner, but he came up fresh as a daisy to belabor Max in the eighth.

In the long run, it was Nova's straight left, delivered with all his 202 pounds behind it, that ruined Baer's comeback. The veteran didn't know how to escape the stabbing leather, and gradually as the round went on it cut him to pieces. Now and then Nova went into action with both hands, standing and slugging, but he owed his victory to his left. The occasional right that he crossed seemed to shake Baer, but never threatened to put him down. After last night it's clear Nova is no knockout artist, though the punishment he handed out might have forced Baer to quit in the last few rounds even had Max's lip not been cut.

Promoter Mike Jacobs was mad as a wet hen about the skimping crowd that turned out and still was threatening to send the Louis-Galento fight to another city, perhaps Philadelphia. He blamed the World's Fair for holding the gross gate to $82,364.

Colonials Play Two Sunday With Troy Bearcats Here Facing Upstate Mound Star

Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, it'll be the Kingston Colonials vs. the Troy Bearcats in a double-header at the Athletic Field. Manager Fred Davi of the local club hopes to see his tossers come through.

"I think we have a good chance," he said today, "with Joe Brown and Charlie Neff rested and ready for mound duty." Brown checked the Trojans with five hits in the Colonials' win over them before, and Neff has been showing high calibre flinging in the state loop.

Troy is counting on taking one game at least, the one Mark Filly pitches. This flinger, now a lawyer with a nice practice in the collar city, has had experience in the International League, having tossed for Albany in that circuit, and also in the Texas League and with the Washington Senators. Backers of the Troy club were very much put out when the Colonials trimmed their boys before, because the upstarts were heavy favorites to take over the new entry in the state loop. Last year Troy tied with the Mohawks for the championship, but the series was never played.

Just Keeps Riding

London, June 2 (AP)—A wizened little fellow named Billy Bullock scrambled off Ridley, winner of the Northern Stakes, yesterday. It was 31 years to the day since he rode the filly Signoretta, a 100-1 shot, to triumph in the 1908 Derby. No one knows his age or why he does it. Everyone knows why. For although he rode Signoretta to triumph first in Derby, then in the Oaks, he never became a really fashionable jockey. So he just keeps riding for fun and eggs—or as they say over here—fish and chips money.

If you wish people to hold you in high esteem there are two important things to do. One is to behave yourself and the other is to acquire wealth.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

In the won and lost columns it all looks the same, but there are two ways to break up an extra inning baseball game—power or science.

Both methods were demonstrated spectacularly yesterday. The Cincinnati Reds, who have virtually surpassed the New York Yankees as exponents of the power play, exploded five runs in the faces of the Boston Bees to win 9-4 in the 13th inning. The Brooklyn Dodgers downed the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in their night game when Gene Moore tripled and stole home in the 14th.

There is no fault to be found with either system but the Reds' way causes less fretting. They simply loaded the bases in the fourth overtime period and followed it up with a single by Will Hershberger and a home run, his fifth of the season, by Harry Craft.

Triple at Midnight

The Dodgers went in for more drama. A near-capacity crowd of 32,574 was on hand to see the rivals who had played a 9-9 tie in 19 innings before darkness fell at Chicago May 17. They tossed in a triple play at midnight—which must be something new in the annals of baseball—and presented the victory to Vito Tamulis, the hard luck pitcher who had worked the last 11 innings of their previous stalemate with the Cubs as well as an 11-inning tie with Philadelphia in the third game of the season.

Tamulis, fourth Brooklyn hurler, took over with the bases loaded in the ninth and worked effectively thereafter, passing his crisis in the 12th when the first two men singled and were erased by the triple killing. Attempting to hunt, Jim Gleason popped to Harry Lavett, who trapped the ball and threw to Dolph Camilli at base. One runner was tagged, the base touched and the other runner nabbed between second and third.

The loss dropped Chicago into fourth place in the National League as the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded on the Phillies 5-2 in another night game and climbed into third place. A home run by Bill Brubaker broke a tie in the eighth inning and gave the Pirates their winning impetus.

In another thriller typical of the senior circuit the St. Louis Cardinals nosed out the New York Giants 1-0 on a disputed double by Johnny Mize and an error in the ninth inning. The Giants argued so violently Mize was out at second that two of them were ordered out of the game. It was the fourth victory without defeat for Fiddler Bill McGee, who gave only five hits.

Gomez Good

The Yankees pounded out their customary big inning—a four run rumble in the eighth—to beat the Cleveland Indians 8-3 and maintain their margin at the top of the American League. Lefty Gomez had one of his better days and gave up only one hit for seven innings.

Boston's Red Sox walloped the Detroit Tigers 14-5 with Eldon Auker keeping his former teammates under control on eight hits—one of them Hank Greenberg's tenth homer of the year.

The Washington Senators beat the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics stopped the St. Louis Browns by identical scores, 10-7. Both were hitting battles with six pitchers being used in each game.

With a plus 5 showing for yesterday's first round, he was only six points behind Sam Snead, the leader and last year's winner.

Roswell, N. M.—Babe Ritchie, 200, Lubbock, Tex., stopped Max Russ, 188, Minneapolis, (6).

New York—Joey Fontana, 130, Brooklyn, stopped Pete Mascia, 134, Brooklyn, (3).

Guldahl Sure He'll Win Open

New York, June 2 (AP)—Big Ralph Guldahl, who may make modern golf history by winning his third straight U. S. Open championship next week is a confident cuss. You have to admire him for it.

The bookmakers have made the Madison (N. J.) professional a 6-1 favorite to repeat at the Philadelphia Country Club his 1937 and 1938 open victories. Ralph feels they're quite justified in doing so. "I have a definite feeling about the open—that I'll win it or at least be in the running all the way," he said today before teeing off on the second round of the 126-hole, $5,000 Goodall round-robin tournament.

Guldahl, matched with Olin Dutra and Ben Hogan for his second in the Goodall round-robin, was in an advantageous position.

Peck Breaks 45 In Thursday Shoot

Four skeeters turned out for the regular practice session at the Ulster County Gun Club Thursday afternoon.

Merrill Peck, with strings of 22 and 23 for 45 out of 50 targets, did the best shooting.

Because of the small number of gunners at yesterday's shoot officers of the club have decided to abolish the weekly meet and hold two sessions a month. The next shoot will be conducted June 15. Thursday's scores:

Boiceville Rangers Win Over Grunenwalds 7-2; Jones-Wiltwycks Tonight

Shelling Red Sleigh from the mound, the Boiceville Rangers swept through a hapless Grunenwald outfit for a 6-run fifth inning outburst to win 7-2 last night. Turned back in four games, the Rangers cut loose with a 6-run rally to insure their initial City Loop win at the Athletic Field.

Jones Dairy clashes with Gus Steigewald's Wiltwyck A. C. in tonight's attraction at the Athletic Field. The Dairyemen, roosting in second place with two won and two lost for 500, need this game to retain a chance of overtaking the Independents. The Ice House Gang conquered Grunenwalds by a 5-4 count in Monday's encounter and will be out for their second straight win.

With the veteran Red Lane twirling a natty four-hitter, the Rangers came from behind last night to scalp the fooling Grunenwalds, throttling them after the first frame. Grunenwalds jumped out to a 2-0 edge in the opener (Boiceville's jinx all season) and the Rangers seemed doomed for another defeat.

Lamb walked, stole second, took third on Davis' error of Purvis' short fly and came home on Hanley's liner to Zoller. Purvis tallied on Kelder's rap to left to put Lane behind the eight-ball. The fighting Knappens came back with one counter in the fourth when Ray Schneider rapped a tremendous triple down the left field corner against the freight shed scoring Bush.

Rangers Sculp Sleigh
Shelling Sleigh from the hill with a six-run hurricane, the Rangers wowed the crowd insuring a hot time in Boiceville. Eleven men teed off on Sleigh and Strubel and when the carnage ceased, six Rangers hit home plate. Davis opened with a bingle and Bush and Nussbaum biffed hits for three runs after Hughes popped to Pepper. North walked and Schneider's single scored Bush.

Sleigh departed to the showers and Strubel, the Bakerboys' fireman, took over. Zoller's free pass and Sickles' neat single accounted for two more tallies before Davis lined straight at Dulin with the sacks populated to capacity. Ahead 7-2, the Rangers flashed sensational form abled with Buddy Hughes turning in a grand game at short. Hughes gobbled eight chances for a nifty defensive performance.

Lane Flings Well
Boiceville's Red Lane came through with another well-hurled game. Lane's slow deliberate style and baffling hook stymied the Bakers as the red-headed hurler was supreme in the clutch. Lane has hurled a lot of ball games "in them thar hills" but last night he stopped the city slickers cold.

Sleigh fanned seven in his four-inning stint and walked one but Boiceville's rampage ruined a swell evening for the Grunenwalds' right-hander. Strubel's wildness in a relief role kept the Rangers rolling as they went to town in a big way.

Davis, Bush, Nussbaum and Schneider collected two bingles apiece to show the way with the willows. Lamb, Dulin, Kelder and Strubel were credited with the Bakers' four scattered sateties.

With the addition of these two outstanding teachers of the game, Lou Little, of Columbia, dean of the school since its inception, announced that the program for the week was complete. McLaughry, noted as the inventor of the triple-winning formation, will talk on "Offensive Variations." Stuhldreher, quarterback of the famed "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame and successful coach at Villanova before he moved into the Big Ten field, will talk on "Quarterback Strategy."

McLaughry's day at the school will be Thursday, August 31. Stuhldreher will wind up the school Friday, September 1.

Light-Heavy Match
New York, June 2 (AP)—Promoter Lou Diamond announced today Manager John Roxborough had accepted terms for Dave Clark, Detroit light heavyweight contender to meet Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside (N. J.) on June 15 in the Nutley (N. J.) velodrome.

Child Is Born Dead To Roosevelt Couple

Boston, June 2 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made known today that a child was born to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Roosevelt, wife of the youngest son of the President.

The child arrived "prematurely" at the Lying-in Hospital of the Richardson House, Mrs. Roosevelt said. She said that the mother was in "fine condition."

The President's wife, who arrived here last night after suddenly cancelling all her engagements said she would visit the hospital today.

John Roosevelt, she added, was "naturally disappointed" by the premature birth.

The society wedding of the couple in Nahant last June was attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The arrival of the grandchild was not anticipated until July, and Mrs. Roosevelt had announced that the former Ann Lindsay Clarke would be unable to attend the reception to the King and Queen.
